AIR RAID BATTLE

LONDON, PARIS ROUT BOMBERS

WAR IN SKIES BEGINS

Europe Today

Europe's war in the air began in earnest today with reports of successful bombings of German industrial cities along the Belgian border and repulsed raids on the English coast near London and on Paris. Berlin denied persistent Warsaw reports Polish planes had successfully reached the German capital, but did admit the raids on the industrial towns. (Page 2.)

Meantime, Warsaw's fall to Hitler's army was believed imminent.

Dispatches from the Polish capital indicated Hitler's troops might seize the city by nightfall. Thousands of citizens streamed into the country. The U. S. embassy staff moved 60 miles east to Luck. (Page 2.)

Although Berlin still was asserting this morning that "not a shot" has been fired on Gemany's western border, the French assert they had made "local advances" at points on a 100-mile front between the Rhine and Moselle rivers in "testing" operations. (Page 10.)

The British government reported her navy had sunk three German ships which could have been converted into raiders and said "several" of her own merchant ships had been sunk. (Page 3.)

Winston Churchill, British admiralty lord, estimated 125 died as a result of the sinking Sunday of the British liner Athenia. (Page 12.)

President Roosevelt, after proclaiming the United States' neutrality and invoking the 1937 neutrality law, was arranging further steps to keep America out of war and plug gaps in American defenses. (Page 11.)

BULLETINS

BRUSSELS, Sept. 6 (AP)—Belgian anti-aircraft batteries near Louvain opened fire on an unidentified airplane flying over Belgian territory late last night, an official Belgian national defense communique said today. The airplane was said to have turned and retraced its course.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—The American Scantic Line, operating between New York and ports on or near the Baltic Sea, has suspended service indefinitely because of the danger from mines and belligerent warships in Baltic waters. The line operates four passenger and three cargo vessels. Two are in port here and the rest in Baltic ports or at sea.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 6 (INS)—A vessel sunk by a mine near Malmo, Sweden, Monday, it was believed here today, was the Imata, a 2000-ton ship owned by the Latviar government. Her crew of 20 men and two women were reported drowned.

CAPETOWN Sept. 6 (INS)—Gen. Jan Christian Smuts was sworn in as premier of South Africa today. Smuts took over the premiership when the South African Assembly turned down a resolution by Premier J. B. M. Hertzog for South African neutrality.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6 (AP)—Two Italian ships, the Leme and the Fella planned to sail from here today and tomorrow, strengthening belief Italy intends to remain neutral for the present.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Costa Rican government today ordered five German ships anchored at Puntarenas to dismantle their radio stations.

TRONDHEIM, Norway, Sept. 6 (AP)—The German steamer Freiburg, which arrived yesterday disguised as a Soviet vessel, will not be interned because she had no guns. The ship, with Soviet funnel markings, flew the Danish flag as she entered the port, but hoisted the Nazi Swastika thereafter.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 6 (INS)—Britain's new war cabinet is expected momentarily to place the entire nation under military control by proclaiming martial law, it was stated in reports reaching Amsterdam today.

Grimy, sooty, fog-bound old London, which never knew anything worse than a few leisurely Zeppelin raids in the World War, had a taste today of what the 1939 brand of conflict means.

For more than two hours, the city's residents huddled in cellars and bomb-proof shelters while on the eastern coast the fleet fighters of the Royal Air Force came to grips with a group of German raiders.

One of them, it appears, was shot down by anti-aircraft and machine-gun fire as the rattle of deadly guns in the environs of London told staid England how perilously close the new European war is raging to its shores.

The British and French air fleets were in action as well, the Paris press revealing that Aachen (Aix-La-Chapelle) and other industrial centers in the Rhineland had been attacked from the air. Berlin radio advices confirmed news of the raids.

Paris also had its air raid warnings, but there, as in London, the Germans failed to penetrate the defenses created with such break-neck speed when war, after six years of waiting, became inevitable.

Warsaw continued to insist 30 of her fighters had flown to Berlin and successfully completed their job. Berlin neutral observers denied this and other reports of air raids on the German capital.

British flyers continued propaganda flights over German territory without being challenged by the enemy.

British Beat Off Nazi Sky Raiders

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Sept. 6—A fleet of German bombing planes approached the east coast of England today, encountering heavy anti-aircraft fire which accounted for at least one of the raiders while the population of London took to air raid shelters in the first real visit of Europe's war to British soil.

Terrific anti-aircraft gunfire was heard shortly before 7:14 a. m. (2:14 a. m. Boston time), while the residents of London were calmly carrying out their air raid precautions.

According to reports from numerous independent eyewitnesses,

Warsaw Fall Seen Near as Thousands Flee Big Nazi Drive

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (INS)—Capture of the important city of Krakow, ancient capital of Poland, "without a battle" was announced by the German high command late today.

German generals commanding the victorious army immediately visited the famed "Pilsudski Mound" where the late Marshal Josef Pulsudski is buried to pay their respects to the renowned warrior.

WARSAW, Sept. 6 (8:30 a. m., 3:30 a. m., E.D.T.) (AP)—The situation in Warsaw grew steadily more ominous today with the expectation in some quarters that German troops pressing down from the north would arrive before nightfall.

Poles, proud of their capital and hoping to save it from extensive damage by artillery fire, plan to defend it beyond the city limits to the best of their ability, and it was generally expected there would be a bitter battle.

While Nazi troops were approaching ever closer, they apparently had not reached the Bug river, 25 miles north of here.

This was indicated by the absence of explosions such as would mark the blowing up of bridges by the retreating Poles.

No retreating Polish soldiers have yet been seen in Warsaw.

A general staff communique asserted 30 Polish planes had bombed Berlin and returned safely to their bases, but no report was made of any damage inflicted.

(Official Berlin quarters emphatically denied the German capital had been raided, saying it was impossible that even high-flying scouting planes could have made exploratory flights without detection. Neutral observers said their had been no air raid alarms in Berlin).

The communique said:

"Enemy aviators yesterday continued their aerial brutality in bombarding towns, railway stations and columns of fleeing refugees on highways.

"Polish planes effectively bombarded German tank columns near Chiechanow and near Radomska."

(While not making specific reference to that statement, German officials denied reports of German reverses circulated abroad.)

Invading German armies unmasked a powerful drive to take the Polish capital while a city deserted by official life and by the majority of its citizens waited tensely for the battle that would decide its fate.

Fighting raged to the north and west. The Nazi infantry was preceded in its push by planes that yesterday roared over Warsaw in repeated attacks which no Polish planes rose to meet.

EXTRA! Czechs Declare War on Nazis

CHICAGO, Sept. 6 (INS)—Dr. Eduard Benes, exiled head of Czechoslovakia's provisional government, today officially proclaimed a state of war exists between his dismembered nation and Germany.

Dr. Benes, former president of the Czechoslovakian state, forwarded his message from London to his Chicago office where it was made public by Dr. Jan Papanek, in charge in Benes' absence.

As German troops pressed southward from East Prussia, Polish infantry marched through Warsaw to take positions beyond the city limits in a final stand to save the capital. Army experts predicted the German troops might arrive by nightfall.

British Sink German Ships in Many Seas

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 6 (INS)—Great Britain early today officially revealed the opening stages of a vast struggle for control of the seas, in which a rapidly-increasing number of war and merchant ships have been destroyed or disabled since Sunday's inauguration of the Anglo-French conflict with Germany.

Even neutral vessels have already gone to the bottom as a result of the titanic maritime war, it was disclosed in a communique given out by the British Ministry of Information.

The announcement said at least three German merchantmen "which might have been converted into raiders," were destroyed by the British navy in the Atlantic after the "safety of the crews had been provided for."

"Several" British merchant ships, it was admitted, had been "attacked or sunk" by German submarines. Many of the Nazi U-boats, in turn, were attacked and some sunk "in several localities," the communique continued.

It was unofficially reported that the submarine blamed for the torpedoing of the British liner Athenia, with a loss of lives estimated by a London newspaper at 380, was sunk with depth charges fired by a British destroyer off the Scottish coast.

Some 900 of the Athenia's survivors were brought ashore to Eire and Scotland by rescue vessels yesterday and all those interviewed said a submarine not only torpedoed the liner, but also rose to the surface and shelled her while the survivors were taking to lifeboats.

Referring to Monday night's British air raids on the German fleet near the Kiel Canal, the communique said:

NAZI SHIPS HIT

"There is reason to believe that the attacks by the Royal Air Force on naval units in German waters was more successful than ordinarily reported."

Shortly after the raid the British claimed two of Germany's five battleships were struck by bombs and disabled.

(A Berlin announcement claimed 12 of 22 British planes were shot down in the action and that no bombs struck any German warships.)

The British announcement further said:

"The German government has announced the laying of mine fields which apparently have claimed two neutral ships, a Danish fishing boat and Greek merchant ship, as victims."

POLISH INDUSTRY AREAS CAPTURED, BERLIN DECLARES

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 6—As Nazi circles predicted the fall of Warsaw within two weeks, the German military high command today issued an official communique describing sweeping new successes on the eastern front.

The German armies, it was revealed, are now thundering toward Warsaw at a rate of 40 kilometers (almost 30 miles) daily.

German military quarters officially denied foreign reports that German troops were shelling Warsaw.

During the past 24 hours, the jaws of the Reich's military pincers virtually closed on the strategic cities of Posen, Lodz and Cracow. The latter two are expected to be encircled within 12 hours.

"Operations on the eastern front continued successfully Sept. 5," the communique said.

"According to plain, mountaineer troops captured the northern passes and outlets of the Beskiden mountains (on the Poland-Slovakia border), and are at present attacking Neu Sandez."

(Editor's Note: Neu Sandez (Nowy Sacz) lies about 25 miles north of the Beskiden range of the Carpathian mountains within the province of Cracow, 50 miles southeast of the city of Cracow, one of the Nazi army's present main objectives.)

"Troops pushing on Cracow from the south and west are driving the Poles before them.

"The entire Upper Silesian industrial district is in German hands. Farther north, German troops captured the lines linking Kheciny, Lepussuo and Uiotrkow.

PARIS HEARS MANY REPORTS OF DISORDERS IN GERMANY

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 6—Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop today was reported bearing the brunt of blame in Germany for the war.

French circles at the same time heard of disorders and passive resistance in the Reich, with some quarters even reporting that revolution is smouldering and may break into flames.

Von Ribbentrop, French reports said, is at odds with German officialdom, and is even more intensely disliked by the German people.

Stories of disorders in Germany are passed by words of mouth and are published in the newspapers. Most of the press accounts appear under Dutch or Swiss datelines.

Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, who has close connections with the foreign office, and whose article, of course, was approved by the censor, was permitted to say in L'Oeucre:

"The Gestapo has made mass arrests in Austria, the Sudetenland (former Czechoslovakia), and the the old Reich as well.

"The German populace is entirely pessimistic, and people do not even dare to converse.

"People of Germany view the situation as very critical, because of heavy losses on the Western Front, where evacuation had not been completed before the start of hostilities.

"Refugees flying towards the center of the Reich report big French successes everywhere."

Dropping of handbills by English airplanes is said to be having an important effect on the Germans.

Czechs in Bohemia and Moravia, say the French, are doing their utmost to cause trouble, keeping the German secret police busy. Some open rioting was reported.

Strong anti-German sentiments are felt in the new German protectorate of Slovakia, with Slovakians reported receiving instructions from inner circles in Prague, the French say.

Some Austrians are said to be printing and distributing handbills in their former country.

Storm troopers and police are, according to French circles, having an extremely difficult time maintaining solidarity of the Reich.

'War Baby' Shares Ease

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (INS)—A wave of profit-taking today tempered the stock market's war boom enthusiasm.

For the first time since their sensational advance since Friday the "war babies" gave ground, and showed losses running from $1 to $4 a share at one time. Support checked their decline and brought occasional rallies but these failed to follow through.

Elsewhere in the market there were strong spots, notably in groups that had been shelved in the stampede to buy the munition and commodity shares at the outbreak of the second world war.

Outstanding in the stocks to advance were rails, utilities, merchandising shares and individual issues.

Long Snaps Back In Cig Tax Dispute

If Congressman John W. McCormack of South Boston will have the federal government lift the federal tax on cigarettes and tobacco sold in state institutions —then Massachusetts may attempt to lift the two-cent cigarette tax on smokes sold in federal institutions here.

This was the answer today by State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long to Congressman McCormack, who yesterday sent a letter to Governor Saltonstall asking that the two-cent state tax be dropped in the case of war veteran patients and employes in federal hospitals.

"The federal government," said Long, "collects six cents per package on cigarettes and 18 cents a pound on tobacco. This tax must be paid in all state institutions in Massachusetts."

At the present time, Commissioner Long said, it would be impossible to exempt federal institutions from the state cigarette tax.

He explained that under the law, distributors and retailers must be licensed and that the distributors pass on to the consumers the tax they themselves must pay before they sell the cigarettes.

If Congressman McCormack will have the federal tax lifted on cigarettes and tobacco sold in state institutions, then Long will be willing, he said, "to recommend to the Legislature that amendment be made to the state law exempting patients and attendants in federal institutions from the two-cent tax."

Lame 'Scooter' Rider Dies

That electric "scooter" the Legislature exempted from motor vehicle fees for benefit of crippled Harold W. MacKinnon of Brookline was riderless today.

MacKinnon, who was 27 years old, died at Peter Bent Brigham hospital after a brief illness. He had been an infantile paralysis victim since boyhood.

Although MacKinnon's "scooter" wheel-chair, in which he traveled about his neighborhood, will carry him no more, other cripples throughout the state will continue to benefit from legislation his case inspired.

Operating his electric "scooter," bought for him by neighborhood friends, MacKinnon had to pay as much compulsory auto insurance as the owner of a full sized auto.

When his plight was described by Representative Philip Bowker of Brookline, a bill was passed exempting "invalids' motor wheelchairs."

HOLY CROSS HEAD, FR. DOLAN, DIES

WORCESTER, Sept. 6—Rev. Francis J. Dolan, S. J., president of Holy Cross College since 1933, died suddenly at St. Vincent Hospital today, following an operation for a throat ailment.

Death was attributed to a heart attack. Father Dolan, 46 years old, had been ill at the college only a few days with a cold and had complained of being worn out, due to the difficult task of launching a renovation and building program, in addition to his other duties.

Born in Jamaica Plain, July 14, 1893, Father Dolan received his early education at Boston College high school and Boston College.

Later he studied at St. Andrew-on-the-Hudson and Woodstock college, Woodstock, Md., becoming a member of the Society of Jesus.

From 1919 to 1921, he was professor of classics at Loyola college, Baltimore; and from 1921 to 1923, he held the same chair at Holy Cross.

He then returned to Woodstock College for four more years of theological study, after which he was ordained to the priesthood in 1926.

From 1927 to 1929, he was dean of freshmen at Boston College and professor of natural theology at the Boston College graduate school.

After two years subsequent study in England, he was appointed dean of studies at Holy Cross. His promotion to the presidency was in 1933.

Seize Professor's Daughter in Holdup

DETROIT, Sept. 6—A student nurse, later revealed to be the daughter of a University of Michigan professor, was held with her husband here today in connection with the $2700 robbery of a branch of the First National Bank of Detroit.

Police say the husband threatened to blow up the bank with nitroglycerene.

He is George Larson, 32, his bride is Cecily, 25. They have been married only four months.

The inspector who moved into a downtown hotel and arrested them said the girl admitted she was the daughter of Prof. Roy W. Sellars of the University of Michigan. He is an authority on philosophy.

She married Larson without any knowledge of a previous criminal record, she told police.

He was doing 10 to 25 years in 1931 when he broke out of Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus, O., for a robbery in Cleveland.

The bride is being held for investigation. The authorities say the bridegroom confessed to the holdup.

In the holdup the robber thrust a note at C. H. Haberkorn III, teller, while holding a vial between two fingers and keeping his other hand in his pocket as if hiding a gun. The note said:

"This bottle is full of nitroglycerine. Give me $10,000 or $20,000."

Eleven other employes and numerous customers were unmindful of the holdup. Haberkorn gave the robber loose cash in the drawers.

As the robber fled down the street, Haberkorn fired a shot at him through the window. Haberkorn caught the license number of the robber's car and the two arrests followed.

The "nitroglycerine" bottle was found by police. They said it contained "only some kind of a harmless lotion."

Lowell Man Killed In Truck Crash

Louis Connors, 28, of Wentworth ave., Lowell, was killed today in a head-on truck collision on the Boston rd., Billerica.

Swapped Wives Both Happy In Concord, Wayland Homes

Exchange of husbands and wives by two socially prominent Concord couples was revealed today when Benjamin L. Wilson, wealthy Boston business executive, admitted he had secretly married the divorced wife of his friend and former neighbor, Kenneth L. Hayes.

Wilson's recent wedding to the ex-Mrs. Hayes completed a double marital shuffle which had its beginning in June when the first Mrs. Wilson obtained her divorce and became Hayes' bride.

OFTEN A GUEST THERE

The second Mrs. Hayes was busy today rearranging the cozy Concord home previously occupied by he husband and his former wife, her one-time close friend and almost constant associate.

The present Mrs. Hayes was often a guest in the same home, when she was Mrs. Wilson and the present Mrs. Wilson was Mrs. Hayes No. 1.

The two families, both then residents of one of Concord's most fashionable neighborhoods, met frequently for evenings at cards, for friendly suppers or for social affairs.

Today the new Mrs. Hayes told a Boston Evening American reporter:

"I'm happily married now, and nothing is going to interfere with that happiness, if I can help it.

STILL GOOD FRIENDS

"I have not seen my former husband or the former Mrs. Hayes since our respective divorces.

"They live in Wayland now, we still live in Concord, and we have no occasion to meet socially.

"I am sure, however, there are only friendly feelings among all four of uss.

"Of coursee, there is bound to be talk and unkind comment. That can't be helped. But it is wholly unjustified and my husband and I are not going to let it affect us."

Girlish in appearance and strikingly attractive, the present Mrs. Hayes is dark-haired and petite.

THEY'RE HAPPY, TOO

Her former husband, Wilson, interviewed in Boston where he is widely popular in business circle, said today:

"The former Mrs. Hayes and I are married and living happily in Wayland and that, positively, is all the information we care to give out," he said.

The new Mrs. Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Stimpson of Beacon st., Brookline, who are at present at their summer home on Cape Cod. Mr. Stimpson is an investment broker.

Hayes hurried to Las Vegas, Nev., and married Mrs. Janet Wilson on July 9 last, the day after she had secured a divorce from Wilson at Carson City, Nev. An agreement as to property settlement, was made out of court. They were married in Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 23, 1923.

The first Mrs. Hayes, who married Hayes, a prosperous realty expert, in Boston, Jan. 7, 1927, lived on a ranch south of Reno, where she was granted a divorce June 20. A sealed agreement provided a substantial property settlement.

BRIGHTON GIRL 2D MYRNA LOY

Myrna Loy's double has been chosen.

She is Mildred Alice Farewell, a 20-year-old Brighton auburn haired beauty, who is 5 feet 3 inches tall.

Lacking none of the allure so characteristic of the original Myrna, Mildred won out in the contest, sponsored by the Boston Evening American and Loew's Theaters, to find the nearest double for the Hollywood star.

She was chosen at finals at Loew's State Theater last night. The judges were Charles A. Coyle of the Chamber of Commerce, Fred R. Sullivan of the school committee and Robert Appleton, Hotel Bradford director.

As winner of the contest, Mildred will visit the New York World's Fair dressed in a glamorous I. J. Fox ensemble. Later she will make a tour of many New England cities and will meet a Rita Johnson double in Worcester, a Judy Garland double in Providence, a Norma Shearer double in Hartford, Ct., and a Rosalind Russell double in Waterbury, Ct.

Blanchard Decides To Keep Senate Job

Declaring that his move had accomplished his purpose—to call general attention to what he believes is the inadequate compensation paid state legislators—Sen. Arthur F. Blanchard, Rep., of Cambridge, who resigned in a huff at the close of the last legislative session, today withdrew that resignation.

In a letter to Senate President Joseph R. Cotton, Blanchard stated:

"I hereby withdraw my resignation as Senator," but, in an accompanying statement, he gave varying reasons.

"First of all," he stated, "I am confronted with the practical impossibility of filling my seat.

"It would be confusing to the voters and an added expense for a special election, and, besides, there is a bare chance that the district might be lost to the Republican party."

The Senator was a leader in the fight for extra compensation for the legislators during the biennial session. He advocated that they be paid for next year, during which there was no regular session of the legislature scheduled.

Sullivan Files In Council Race

Nomination papers, signed by 1020 registered voters, were filed today by City Councilor Maurice H. Sullivan, seeking re-election from Ward 22, Brighton.

Sullivan is a former member of the Boston Evening American editorial staff.

One more hat was tossed into the Ward 3 ring when nomination papers for the Council were filed by I. A. "Ike" Piller, former president of the Cigarmakers' Union.

Allies Censor News of Liners

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—British and French steamship offices today imposed a strict censorship on news of the movements of their vessels, leaving the immediate future of the Queen Mary and the Normandie as uncertain as the whereabouts of the German liner Bremen, unreported after a week at sea.

The Normandie has been here more than a week. It was joined yesterday by the Champlain.

The Ile de France, another French liner, is bound for New York with more than 1000 passengers from Havre, but whether it will arrive tomorrow on schedule could not be learned.

The Queen Mary arrived Monday. In addition the Cunard White Star line has the Georgic and Samaria in port. The Lancastria is off on a West Indies cruise and no information about her was available.

The United States liner Manhattan is due tomorrow from Europe but the line said it had no list of passengers on board.

CHILDREN FLOCK TO SCHOOLS

Thousands of bright-faced boys and girls—from kindergarten toddlers to serious high school seniors—thronged hundreds of schools in Greater Boston today as the school year began in dozens of communities.

In Boston, Somerville, Wellesley and Medford, however, there were only assemblages of the teachers, with classes scheduled to begin tomorrow.

In Boston, 4600 instructors cleared their desks and got ready for tomorrow's influx of an estimated 126,000 pupils.

Fitton High School, the only Catholic high school in East Boston, announced today that residents of Winthrop, Beachmont and Revere will be admitted to its freshman class tomorrow for the first time in its 73 years of existence.

Private schools, junior colleges, colleges and universities will open later in the month.

7000 IN ARLINGTON

Enrollment at Arlington, according to Superintendent Joseph S. Keating, is slightly under 7000, with 1900 in the senior high school and 1800 in the junior high school. These last figures represent an increase of about 100 in each instance, offsetting an estimated drop of 200 in grammar grades.

In Carlisle about 100 were registered, while Medford reported 360, about 40 less than last year. In Concord Superintendent H. Paul Larrabee reported enrollment of 1500, while Lexington reported 2500.

MANY SCHOOLS OPEN

Figures along the South Shore were not generally available, although it was stated that 13,500 registrations are expected in Quincy, with 4800 in Weymouth, 3832 in Braintree and 550 in Cohasset.

Other communities where school opened today include Belmont, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Lawrence, Malden, Melrose, Methuen, Milton, Needham, North Andover, North Reading, Norwood, Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Waltham, Winchester, Winthrop and Woburn.

Boys' Prank Kills Newton Workman

A boyish prank allegedly caused the death today of Michael J. Kearney, 50, of Maple st., Watertown.

For 30 years an inspector for the Boston Edison Company, Kearney was killed by an electric shock as he replaced a street light bulb in Homer st., opposite the Newton city hall.

The bulb had been broken by boys throwing stones, according to police.

With both hands burned and his body bruised by a 20-foot fall, Kearney was found dead at the foot of his ladder, which was leaning against the electric light pole.

Medical Examiner Thomas Morton Gallagher said death was by electrocution, not by the fall.

According to Dr. Gallagher, Kearney apparently held an iron collar on the pole with one hand while replacing the electric bulb with the other hand.

Evidence indicated the bulb broke, short-circuiting the current into Kearney's body, Dr. Gallagher said.

Kearney was a widower. He is survived by one son, John Kearney of Jefferson st., Newton.

F. E. Kern Dies In W. Roxbury

The funeral will be from his late residence, 53 Rockland st., West Roxbury, Friday morning at 8 o'clock. Requiem mass will be sung at St. Mary's Church, Dedham, and will be followed by interment in Brookdale Cemetery, Dedham.

Road to War Lands Youth In Police Net

If it was a desire to fight for England, it certainly got Emile Arsenault, 21, of Franklin st., Holbrook, into a mess of trouble today.

Arsenault first allegedly crashed a stolen car into the rear of one operated by Miss Kay E. Bolster of Vernon st., Arlington, when she stopped for a red light in Cambridge.

Miss Bolster was telling two Metropolitan policemen that the driver of the other car had kept on going when the same auto came limping by, badly damaged.

The officers, Charles Robinson and Jeremiah J. Sullivan, chased it a short distance and arrested Arsenault.

In East Cambridge court he pleaded guilty to using the car without authority, operating without a license and leaving the scene of an accident. He was held in $5000 for hearing Monday.

Then, because he allegedly told the police he had stolen the car from a Holbrook neighbor early today and afterward had broken into a filling station, stealing cigarettes and gum, Holbrook police were notified.

Oh, yes—Arsenault told police he took the car so he could get to Canada, enlist and fight in the war.

FRENCH STILL THRUST AT SIEGFRIED LINE

Advances at Several Positions Reported

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 6 (INS)—Fighting between French and German troops on the Maginot-Siegfried lines proceeded with undiminished intensity today.

The fifth communique issued by the French war ministry this morning said:

"Several local advances were realized yesterday evening and during the night."

These advances followed in the wake of French penetration of the German defenses at a dozen points, exclusively revealed by International News Service on Monday.

Today's communique dealt with close range fighting that followed the first successful French thrust, which International News Service first revealed had taken place in the Moselle valley, probably from the Metz and Strasbourg areas toward the Saarland.

CONTACT WITH ENEMY

"Our troops are in contact (with the enemy) everywhere along the opening in our frontier between the Rhine and the Moselle," the bulletin said.

It is significant that this communique made no mention of hostilities in the southern area near the Swiss frontier where, as International News Service pointed out, the Rhine river itself forms a formidable obstacle to anything but long-range artillery fire and aircraft.

Disclosure of the initial breakthrough on Monday was made 24 hours before the news was released for general publication. Under the present war ministry arrangements, brief communiques are being issued in aris each morning and evening after the developments of the past 12 hours have been collated and prepared for publication in a manner that will not betray military secrtes.

FIRING ON BOTH SIDES

Paris newspapers this evening commented more fully on the western front developments. The Paris Soir reported intensive artillery bombardments from both sides of the Rhine and the activity of French infantry in the north. This paper reported fighting between the French town of Hagenau and Luxembourg.

L'Intransigeant stated that "contact" had been established along a front of 200 kilometres from the Rhine to the Moselle. The paper pointed out that the right hand part of the frontier is a wild wooded region from 400 to 1500 kilometres above sea level.

The left side is formed by the plains of Lorraine as far as neutral Luxembourg.

Great interest was attached to reports of an explosion at Friedrichshaven, Germany, where the great dirigible plant is located.

French attacks last night were reported officially to be concentrated on the northeast frontier, where the German Saar basin lies between the Rhine and Moselle rivers.

That 100-mile front is the most accessible to French forces, with no river barrier in the no-man's-land between France's Maginot Line and Germany's Siegfried Line.

In the third day of operations, today's communique was the first to announce gains. Previous cautious communiques said simply a campaign had begun and was proceeding "normally" with "contact" with German forces in the area between the Rhine and Moselle.

NAZIS CLAIM POLISH INDUSTRY AREA TAKEN

"THOUSANDS OF PRISONERS"

"In the corridor," the communique continued, "troops advanced further along the east bank of the Vistula river, pursuing the Poles.

"East Prussian troops advancing toward Mlawa captured Cichanow, the Poles beating a retreat towards the south, hard-pressed by the Germans. So far tens of thousands of prisoners and 60 field guns have been captured by the corridor army.

"Motorized troops reached Ruzon on the Nardu river.

"The German air force again attacked railway lines and communications, causing heavy losses. The railway stations at Zdunsko and Wola were damaged. Stations in Skarzysko, Tarnow and Wreschen are afire.

"The Polish air force is not in action except for a few pursuit planes near Lodz. There have been no air attacks by the Poles except on Sept. 5.

(Editor's note: The communique did not state where yesterday's attack took place. Polish claims of an air raid on Berlin were denied by the Germans, who declared no air raiders were reported over or near Berlin either yesterday or today.)

"Yesterday, German sea forces destroyed their third Polish submarine."

Military quarters claimed Poles had been routed from the Cracow region, while Kielce was occupied at 11 a. m. This indicated a 400-kilometer push since yesterday, extending the right arm of the German pincer far southeast of Lodz and 140 miles due south of Warsaw.

WEST FRONT QUIET

This southern army will undoubtedly now swing to the north to encircle Warsaw. When the East Prussians seized Cichanow, 30 kilometers south of Mlava, it meant the left arm of the pincer had moved rapidly toward Warsaw and is now only 75 kilometers (46½ miles) distant.

It was officially announced that the important corridor town of Bromberg was taken, while troops crossed the Metze river in a southerly direction, cutting off the defenders of Posen.

The German southern front is advancing rapidly toward Sandomir, 80 kilometers east of Kielce, key point of Poland's arms industry.

German political circles believe the French are awaiting the outcome of German operations in Poland before making any decision concerning hostilities in the west.

(Editor's note: Official reports from Paris now confirm that extensive military operations are actually under way on the Western front.)

DENY HITLER INJURED

Adolf Hitler continued his inspection tour of the Polish front. A rumor in Warsaw that he had sustained injuries was without foundation. As this correspondent disclosed yesterday, the Fuehrer's car was under fire in the Corridor region yesterday.

The first announcement regarding German losses on the Eastern front vaguely stated that they amounted to "0.04 killed and 0.25 per cent wounded out of the total strength of the German army." This means that the losses would average four dead and 25 wounded for each unit of 10,000. More detailed figures are expected later.

Naval, Air Patrol of Atlantic Shore Ordered by Roosevelt

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 President Roosevelt acted today to put into effect his avowed policy of "keeping war away from American shores" when he ordered a patrol of Atlantic waters by destroyers, coast guard cutters and planes of the navy and coast guard.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early, announcing plans for the patrol, said that the ships and planes would cover an area extending several hundred miles at sea.

Two destroyers and two coast guard cutters, Early said, already have left to patrol northeast American waters to a distance of several hundred miles off shore.

This policy gradually will be extended to Puerto Rico and waters adjacent to the Antilles and the Canal Zone.

(According to the Associated Press the Navy has ordered the 11,050-ton seaplane tender Langley and 12 long range patrol planes from Honolulu to Manila to enforce the American neutrality act in the Philippine Islands.)

OBSERVATION PATROL

A principal objective of the Atlantic patrol, Secretary Early said, would be to obtain the fullest information regarding any possible belligerent activities in American waters.

The presence of the U. S. patrol at sea will be for observation purposes only. If a German submarine, for instance is sighted the U. S. Maritime Commission will be advsed and, in turn, will notify American shpping and the German embassy.

After citing a German submarine merely as an example, Early said that the same procedure would apply to warcraft of all belligerent nations.

It is believed many of the 116 World War destroyers now being recommissioned would be put into the coastal and Canal Zone patrol

116 SHIPS MAY AID

Navy officials explained that of these 116 destroyers less than half had been kept in condition with paint and oil. Boats in this category could be put out within a couple of weeks, or as soon as crews were mustered for them.

In a second group are World War destroyers which have been permitted to lie tied up and unkept. These vessels could be moved up to the first group in several weeks.

In the third group are vessels the machinery of which has been red-leaded. It would take one or two months to move them up to an approximate condition of the second group.

PARLEY ON NEUTRALITY

The whole tendency, officials said, is to get all 116 ready for "No. 1 priority"—or ready for immediate action.

Official quarters disclosed the United States, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Columbia, Cuba, Mexico and Panama had underwritten an invitation to Panama for a full-dress "neutrality" parley pursuant to the consultative pact concluded at the 1938 Lima Inter-American conference.

LONDON, PARIS ROUT NAZI AIR RAIDERS

one enemy plane was seen to fall, although this was not officially confirmed. Simultaneously with the sirens in London, the air raid warning sounded at Southend, in Essex, where the Thames empties into the English Channel.

(Other wire services reported, without official confirmation, that two British planes were shot down in the battle.)

Dwellers on the outskirts of London heard frequent bursts of anti-aircraft fire. Squadrons of British fighters roared over towns on the way to the east coast to meet the raiders as machine-gun fire rattled at various points near the capital.

Anti-aircraft guns opened up on the raiders on the east coast and the planes were driven off before any bombs had been dropped.

(An Associated Press London dispatch says several flights of planes were seen making for London but their identity—whether attackers or defenders—was not determined. Crowds who had calmly gone to shelters gazed at the clear sky while anti-aircraft batteries were heard distinctly.)

Many Londoners seemed more interested in watching the shells burst than in seeking safety. Many air wardens reported they had difficulty persuading the people to hunt shelter.

SEE PLANE SHOT DOWN

William Ferry, watching from his garden shelter, said he saw about a dozen shell bursts around a plane and added:

"A neighbor told me that he saw the tail part of a plane fall away."

("We saw a plane circling around," another witness said. "Then there was gunfire and a shell seemed to burst near the tail of the machine. I can't say whether it was brought down but it dived straight tooward the ground.")

Twenty minutes after the sirens sounded in Southend, the roar of heavy engines was heard, followed by intense anti-aircraft fire. Twenty minutes later, the sound of engines was heard again at a distance. Two or three shots were fired from some distant emplacement, but no more firing was heard after 8:10 a. m.

The "all clear" was signalled at Southend at 8:15 a. m.

SKY FULL OF SMOKE

Shortly after the alarm terrific anti-aircraft firing started along the east coast and it was presumed that an enemy raid was being made.

Squadrons of British fighters sped over towns, and the sound of machine-gun fire rent the air. No sky raiders could be seen from here, but the heavens were filled with smoke from bursting shells.

The alarm was the third in London since war was declared. When the sirens shrieked a warning all buses and surface cars stopped, but underground and other trains continued.

There was no sign of panic as passengers, with gas masks slung over their shoulders, left buses and cars and sped to safety. Inside the raid shelters the crowd chatted cheerfully and discussed war news.

Further extensive reconnaissance flights over Germany were carried out by the Royal Air Force last night.

The British planes were not engaged by enemy fighters as on two previous occasions.

All returned safely to bases after dropping copies of a note addressed by the British government to the German people.

'Berlin Bombed,' Warsaw Insists

WARSAW, Sept. 6 (AP)—A Polish communique today said:

"Polish forces continue to hold Gdynia and have captured a German anti-tank gun."

An air defense staff communique said:

"Seventy enemy bombers yesterday raided Warsaw, dropping explosive and incendiary bombs, chiefly on the suburbs, causing some casualties. Anti-aircraft fire brought down eight enemy planes."

An earlier general staff communique said:

"Thirty Polish planes bombed Berlin, all returning safely to their bases.

"Enemy aviators yesterday continued their aerial brutality, bombarding towns, railway stations and columns of fleeing refugees on the highways.

"Polish planes effectively bombarded German tanks and columns near Chlechanow and near Radomska."

(Texts of the communiques apparently were not complete.)

German Cities Bombed from Air

PARIS, Sept. 6 (INS)—Heavy bombing of German industrial centers in the Rhineland by British and French planes was revealed by the Paris press today coincident with official announcement of new advances on the western front.

Soon after publication of official communique Number 5 claiming that "several local advances were realized yesterday evening and during the night," the Paris Midi said:

"Allied aviation severely bombed industrial centers in the Rhineland, notably Aix-la-Chapelle" (Aachen).

Nazi Casualties on East Front Given in Berlin

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (INS)—German losses on the eastern front total four dead and 23 wounded to each unit of 10,000 men, according to an official statement today.

Authorities giving their first estimate of the losses sustained in the war against Poland said that on the eastern front the dead amounted to .04 per cent and the wounded to .23 per cent of the total strength of the German army.

(Editor's note: In the last World War, Allied total casualties—killed, wounded, missing and captured—totaled 52.3 per cent Central Power casualties were 67.4 per cent.)

Paris Anti-Raid Guns Rout Nazis

PARIS, Sept. 6 (INS)—The newspaper Intransigeant reported today two German air attacks upon Paris had been repulsed by pursuit planes and anti-aircraft guns. The Paris Soir stated:

"Twice enemy planes have been repelled. Anti-aircraft defenses prevented them from flying over the capital."

WAR CARGO SHIP HITS NEW SNAGS

Continuing in its role as American shipping's No. 1 dilemma, the American Hampton Roads Line's Challenge faced fresh complications today in its efforts to get away from Boston to the war zone with foodstuffs, gasoline and cotton shavings.

It will not, as was stated by Peabody and Lane, the line's local agents, attempt to make delivery in Hamburg, Germany of the 300 tons of cotton shavings potential explosive material. Instead it was said, it will proceed directly to London to deliver 30,000 gallons of di-ethylene, gasoline mixture, and 750 tons of foodstuffs.

MAY DEMAND BONUS

Then, it was added, it will return, bringing back the cargo intended for Germany.

The vessel was inspected by customs officials and was cleared when Acting Port Collector Owen P. McKenna declared that its cargo, technically, is not contraband —this in reply to a demand from City councillor Clement A. Norton, director of Commonwealth Pier, that it be held up.

It seemed that everything was ready for sailing late this afternoon, when it appeared that the National Maritime Union might step in with a demand for $250-month bonus for every crew member, plus $25,000 insurance each for entering the war zone.

AWAIT DECISION

Pending determination of such zones, however, it was said the union will do nothing.

It was announced today, too, that arrangements have been completed for the discharge from the Pauline Friedrich, a German tanker now in the lower bay, of 10 Dutch members of the crew.

The ship is loaded with oil, which has been declared, and will probably be sold here rather than risk running the British blockade. The ship mad be interned.

'Bremen' Lifebuoys Found on Cape Cod

ORLEANS, Sept. 6—Two life preservers from the mysteriously missing $20,000,000 German liner Bremen were found on the shores of Cape Cod last week, coast guard officials revealed today.

The Bremen put out of New York on the night of Aug. 30 after being held up for inspection. The life preservers were found Aug. 31. One was picked up by the night patrol one mile north of the Orleans coast guard station and the other three quarters of a mile to the south by Arthur Lamson of Pittsfield, a summer visitor.

Boatswain Albert Wright, in charge of the coast guard station, said he was of the opinion that the life preservers were lost during a previous passage of the Bremen.

Bremen Life-Buoys On Cape Thought Hoax

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (INS) — Capt. William Diechsel, marine superintendent of the North-German Lloyd Lines, today expressed disbelief that lifebuoys washed ashore off Cape Cod were bonafide safety equipment of the S. S. Bremen.

"I think it was a practical joke, and a very bad one," he said. "I don't believe these preservers were from the Bremen. We have had no word from the ship."

War Comes Smiling In London Blackout

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP)—You meet so many interesting people in blackouts.

A gentleman down the street cuts quite a swath with the gals. He has thick black hair right down to his collar. The first time the sirens blew he won the race to shelter by a head—and what a head! It looked like a newly shaved billiard ball . . .

The English sense of propriety isn't wavering. A fellow near the office spent all day building a sand bag parapet. When he got through he stuck up a sign reading:

"In event of air raid, please not loiter."

LEAVES A CAVITY

How do you like this? One fellow is having his mouth made over. The dentist yanked four teeth last Friday. The fellow went around to see the dentist yesterday. No dentist. He'd joined up. The fellow's mouth looks like the entrance to the Holland tunnel.

To put it mildly, Hitler is unpopular. So signs like "Nuts to Adolf" and "'Arf a mo,' Adolf, we are coming" are common on cars and buses.

You ought to hear the cockneys pronounce Polish names . . . A cabbie said this morning:

"Old Tiler 'e's captured" and then sneezed . . . It turned out the sneeze was the name of a town.

DANGER IN BLACKOUT

The blackouts every night add to the general chaos . . . One newspaperman nearly got a load of buckshot where it would do the most good the other night . . . He spent ten minutes trying to get into the wrong house and his rich midwestern exclamations shattered the quiet of a peaceful suburb . . .

By that time the household had mobilized and an indignant old guy in a white nightshirt and carrying a "sporting gun" and a cricket bat convinced the newsman he didn't have the wrong key but the wrong house.

War Is Hell!

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP)—Pubs are doing a whale of a business these war days. Down at the "Rose and Crown" the landlord told a silent drinker he had no whisky left.

"That's all right," said the silent drinker, "there's no sacrifice too heavy in war time. Give me gin."

and scourged by incessant air raids, with German infantry pushing rapidly nearer through shattered Polish defenses. A swift thrust from the north has put the Nazis within artillery range.

Several hundred thousand residents remained of the normal 1,300,000 population—many of them because of lack of money, others turning back in despair from highways choked with horses, autos, carts, bicycles and plodding, bundle-laden pedestrians.

The government secretly left the city last night leaving only skeleton staffs.

(Budapest diplomatic sources said the government was setting up headquarters at Lubin, 90 miles southeast of Warsaw, and that the U. S. embassy staff had gone to Luck, 200 miles southeast of the capital. An embassy employe of unspecified nationality, remained to guard American property and archives.)

The main Polish defense line was said to be pivoted on Ciechanow, 5 miles north of Warsaw, bending from there to Plonsk, 35 miles northwest of the capital. An unconfirmed report to Budapest said Marshal Smigly-Ryds, head of the Polish army, had tendered his resignation to President Ignace Moscicki.

NAZI SHIPS SUNK BY BRITISH

and the Cunard-White Star Company announced that the 2400-ton British freighter Bosnia was sunk somewhere near the Strait of Gibraltar by a German submarine which first shelled and then torpedoed the vessel. All members of the crew, except a fireman who was killed, were rescued by the Norwegian tanker Eidanger which was taking them to Lisbon. The Bosnia burst into flames before sinking.

The British further announced their navy had sunk the 6593-ton German freighter Carl Fritzen in mid-Atlantic after the crew had been taken off. A similar fate overtook the German freighter Olinda off South America Monday.

In the House of Lords yesterday, Earl Stanhope, speaking for the government, characterized as "ridiculous and absurd" the German intimation that a British mine had sunk the Athenia. He said it was still impossible accurately to estimate the number of casualties.

NEW 'PAPER RAID'

The information ministry meanwhile disclosed a second "leaflet bombardment" of Germany by British warplanes.

On Monday night and early Tuesday morning, it was announced, the British squadrons showered the German Ruhr valley towns with 3,000,000 copies of the British government's letter to the German people, blaming Adolf Hitler's regime for the war.

The first "raid" of this kind was carried out Sunday night and early Monday morning.

In both of these operations, it was claimed, the British planes encountered no German resistance and afterward returned safely to their bases.

British Ambassador Sir Neville Henderson and 39 members of his staff arrived safely in Holland yesterday aboard a special train from Berlin. They will return to London today. The staff of the former London German embassy simultaneously entered Holland, en route to Berlin.

MOSCOW, Sept. 6 (AP) — German newspaper correspondents snapped to military attention today when the Internationale was played in Red Square at a huge demonstration of Communist youth.

BRITISH HINT ATHENIA AVENGED; U-BOAT SUNK

Churchill Reveals 125 Feared Lost

By NEWELL ROGERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 6—An official hint was given today that the submarine which torpedoed and sank the British liner Athenia may have been pursued and sent to the bottom by a British warship as Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, stated without reservation in the House of Commons that the vessel was attacked without warning.

According to a present incomplete list, Churchill said, 125 of the Athenia's passengers are still unaccounted for.

Discussing the sinking of the Athenia and destruction of two German vessels, the Olinda and Carl Fritzen, by British warships, Churchill said:

"There could not be two more opposite cases.

NO LIVES LOST

"The two latter were dealt with in accordance with accepted principles of international law. Every provision was made for the safe removal of the crew and no lives were lost."

Denying that the Athenia carried guns, he said:

"The Athenia was not defensively armed in anyway. The decks had not even been strengthened to carry guns."

In connection with a report in the London Daily Telegraph that the submarine which torpedoed the Athenia had been pursued and sunk by a British cruiser, it was officially stated

"It is not always desirable to publish news regarding destruction or damage to enemy submarines by His Majesty's naval forces. Therefore, because no news have been released, it must not be assumed that no success has been achieved."

SHELLED SINKING SHIP

Statements made by the chief officer of the Athenia, as well as by American and English survivors, Churchill told the House, showed that after torpedoing the passenger ship the U-boat broke surface and fired a shell which exploded in the middle of the deck of the Athenia.

"The disaster," he said, "has proved of greater magnitude than was indicated by earlier reports.

"The ship carried 1418 persons, of which 1103 were passengers, 300 of them being from the United States.

"It has been clearly established that the disaster was due to an attack without warning by a submarine. The Athenia carried no guns."

U. S. PLANE PLANTS SPEED ALLIED CRAFT

As American aircraft factories continued at top-speed today on $50,000,000 worth of fighting planes ordered by France, England and Australia, agents of those foreign nations here — and U. S. government officials—were pondering the same problem:

How, if at all, under this country's present neutrality laws, can the much-needed planes now nearing completion be received and put to their intended use by warring purchasers?

Indications were that French and British strategists might have worked out several answers to the problem, answers satisfactory to themselves but not necessarily acceptable to Uncle Sam.

CAN BE DELIVERED—HERE

In the first place, it was pointed out, there is nothing in the neutrality law to prevent delivery of the planes to buyers' agents here.

Very well, then. The delivery is made.

The planes are French, English or Australian property. They are manned by crews employed by the French, British or Australian governments

This is a neutral country. And the foreign planes cannot stay here.

But what's to prevent them obtaining clearance papers, like merchant vessels in American harbors, and hopping off for Canada, the Bahamas or even for France or England?

DIVIDED AS TO FLYING

Nothing's to prevent it, proponents of one school of legal thought argued today

Other students of the problem, official and unofficial, saw objections to the "fly-em-home" solution of the foreign plane impasse

But these same objectors had other loopholes to offer. The majority of the lay "experts" seemed agreed that once delivered even on United States soil to their foreign purchasers, the American-made planes would not long remain here to be interned or to gather dust and rust.

SPEED UP CONSTRUCTION

Information from aircraft industry centers indicated no stoppage of work on foreign orders was contemplated

To the contrary, men and machines were geared to highest possible speed in turning out the 600 or more planes already in process of construction.

It was revealed that contracts signed by the purchasers took cognizance of the possibility of shipments abroad being held up, and made provision to protect the manufacturers.

Plainly, the foreign buyers had a plan.

What it might be, neither Uncle Sam nor the public knew today.

U. S. Food, Doctors For Athenia Survivors

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (INS)—The coast guard cutter Bibb, carrying two physicians and large quantities of food, clothing and medical supplies today rushed to the aid of the 200 or more American survivors of the torpedoed liner Athenia aboard the freighter City of Flint.

Another cutter, the Campbell, will leave its berth at Staten Island and today as soon as the crew finishes loading it with supplies.

The City of Flint was reported heading for Halifax, N. S.

The Treasury reported the freighter captain advised by radio that of the total of 216 survivors aboard 106 were Americans and that five were injured

The captain did not say how many of the injured were Americans and listed them as: "One with brain concussion, two with broken arms one with broken ankle and one with fractured rib."

The captain said three of the survivors were physicians and were able to aid the injured.

The Bibb left its Norfolk (Va.) base during the night. The doctors aboard were detailed by the U. S. Public Health Service.

"The commanders of the cutters will decide where those aboard the City of Flint who need hospital attention will be landed," the Treasury stated. "If Halifax happens to be the nearest point to the position they contact the freighter they will take the survivors to support. If Boston appears closer, they will be taken there and placed in the Chelsea Marine Hospital."

Russians Weigh Plan to March In

BERLIN, Sept. 6 (INS)—Events of the next ten days are likely to decide whether Soviet Russia will set its own troops marching to effect a common frontier with the Reich, according to reliable indications in authentic quarters tonight.

Russo-German conversations of such a nature are now in progress.

It has not yet been definitely decided in Berlin whether some integral part of Poland is to remain as a buffer state or whether a common Russo-German frontier will be established instead.

If France refrains from actual hostilities, as Germany insists she is doing, it can be assumed, authoritative quarters said, that Germany, Russia and Italy will extend every possible future guarantee to France, in which case decline of the British Empire is a "foregone conclusion."

Eyewitness' Story Of East Front War

(Editor's note: The following dispatch is from a representative of the three American news agencies in Berlin, chosen by lot to visit the German east front as a joint correspondent.)

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY IN SOUTHWEST POLAND (via Berlin) Sept. 6 (INS) Germany's army advancing through Poland, plagued by persistent sniping, today put into effect a general order for the detention of all Polish male civilians of arms-bearing age.

I witnessed examples of these roundups in parts of Polish Silesia now under German occupation, as the first foreign correspondent permitted to visit the front lines.

In flying to the front, I was greatly impressed by the virtually complete subordination of all civilian activity in eastern Germany to the needs of the military forces.

30 POLES' HANDS UP

The grim reality of war was made evident in Czestochowa, where intermittent shots were heard.

On one boulevard German anti-aircraft guns stood in formidable numbers. On the corner were two dead horses; at the left a whole section of one building had fallen, and on other buildings the facades were bullet-riddled and the windows broken.

To the right about 30 Polish civilians stood, closely guarded by steel-helmeted German soldiers with their rifles cocked.

The Poles then were marched off with their hands up.

An accompanying officer explained that the German army's greatest difficulty in Poland is sniping by civilians from houses. Sudden fire was opened in one instance, he said, costing the lives of a German captain and several lieutenants and privates.

ONLY THE ARMY MOVES

Sniping was resumed on the day of my visit, and the 30 men were conducted to the city hall on charges of participating.

Flying in a German bomber from Berlin to Oppeln in Silesia, via Breslau, I was struck by the stoppage of all traffic on the big "Hitler Highway," save for army transports of all kinds. Since Germany is rationing gasoline, nobody can ride in private cars except by special permit.

Railway tracks seemed almost empty, with no passenger trains seen for many miles, only occasional freight trains. We passed some 20 military transports en route.

German bombers, pursuit planes, and power-diving planes, encircled by batteries of anti-aircraft guns, stood ready at various points for possible action.

'BLACK MADONNA' SAFE

The officer who escorted this correspondent said that only three Polish planes had crossed the lines in this sector.

It was learned also that the "Black Madonna," thought by many Poles to be miracle-working, which has been treasured at the Jasnagora monastery at Czestochowa since 1382, went unharmed through three days of active warfare in this vicinity.

Not only did I visit the monastery and see the Madonna, but I was told by the prior, Father Norbert Motylewski, that the image was in no way damaged. Father Motylewski appeared anxious to let the Catholic world know that the Madonna was still intact.

War Fund Begging Banned Under Law

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (INS)—Solicitation in the United States of any funds for any of the belligerents in Europe's war, except for humanitarian purposes, was prohibited today in a regulation issued by the State Department.

Acting under a joint resolution passed by Congress two years ago, the department issued an order requiring all persons and organizations soliciting funds to register with the department, and requiring all solicitors to carry, at all times, identification from the Secretary of State. A fine of $50,000, imprisonment for five years, or both, are penalties.

U.S. MOVES TO PREVENT FOOD PROFITEERING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (INS)—The federal government "undoubtedly" will take prompt and decisive action to prevent skyrocketing of food prices due to the European war, the White House said today.

At the direction of President Roosevelt, the Department of Justice is determining the government's present authority to curb profiteering in food — profiteering which would strike a blow at Americans as well as citizens of belligerent nations.

While the President and his legal advisers sought a way to keep food prices under control, the Department of Agriculture forecast general increases in most domestic retail prices of food and other commodities.

State Officials Keep Watch in Food Prices

With state officials prepared to crack down on any attempt at war profiteering, householders were advised today by John P. McBride, director of the Division of Necessaries of Life, that there is no need to buy sugar or other commodities beyond ordinary needs.

The director said he has investigated sources of supply and has found no evidence of shortage or expected shortage.

His investigation resulted from a Pittsfield firm limiting customers to five pounds of sugar at a time. There is an entirely normal supply, however, McBride said.

SOME RISE NORMAL

Price increases in lamb, beef and pork loins were reported as normal reaction from low prices in these meats registered on a falling market which has prevailed during the summer months.

The demand of the warring nations, market men pointed out, would be for pork and beef products which are corned and packed in cans, and price increases in such products are expected if the war lasts through the winter.

Meat dealers agreed, however, that there is a plentiful supply of livestock in this country at the present time and said prices for fresh meats should not be affected materially for at least several months, except for possible price fluctuations due to conditions other than the war.

SOME PRICES LOWER

Fruit and vegetable dealers could foresee no reason for any but routine price changes in these lines, pointing out that in many instances prices were lower than those of last week.

An executive of a large food distributing concern, who did not wish to be quoted, said he could see no reason for any food shortage in this country.

He declared we have on hand surpluses in many commodities which an increased demand from foreign nations would only serve to help absorb.

During the World War, he pointed out, there was no food shortage here until after the entry of the United States into the conflict in 1917, when the war had already been going for three years.

FOUR-WAY AXIS NOW FORMING?

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Danish newspaper Berlingske Tidende asserted in a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent today that a Rome-Berlin-Moscow-Tokyo axis is in the process of formation.

It said an Italian military mission was arriving today in Berlin on the heels of a Soviet military mission which has been conferring in Berlin since Sunday, meeting daily in the defense ministry.

The newspaper said that, at the same time, negotiations had begun between Moscow and Tokyo for a non-aggression pact.

London Regrets Danish Bombing

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP)—The British government apologized today to the Danish government for damaged caused by a bomb or bombs "which may have been dropped by British aircraft on the town of Esbjerg" and promised an investigation.

(Bombs fell in Esbjerg on Monday, killing at least two persons, one a woman.

CANADA BANS 'HAMS'

OTTAWA, Sept. 6 (CP)—Officials of the radio division of the transport department said today all amateur radio stations in Canada would be "closed for the present," due to war conditions. Some 3500 operators will be affected.

SUNDAY ADVERTISER

Kennedy, 51 Today, Aids War Refugees

LONDON, Sept. 6 (AP)—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy observed his 51st birthday today working in his office with coat off and shirt sleeves rolled trying to get Americans out of Great Britain.

A birthday party was planned for him by Mrs. Kennedy tonight but the ambassador was not certain he would be there to cut the cake. All members of the Kennedy family were in London and were to be at the birthday dinner except Joseph Jr. or Jack, one of whom was going to Glasgow late today to canvass the situation regarding Athenia survivors.

Plans for Mrs. Kennedy and some of the children to go home were indefinite pending further information on when ship accommodations would be available.

Ambassador Kennedy was said to be urging government officials in Washington to start American boats for England immediately but lacked assurance it would be done.

All regular American and neutral boats were said to be booked fully until mid-October. British ships also had full bookings but many of them were being withdrawn as a result of the Athenia disaster.

An overwrought staff at the embassy was seeking accommodations for every American, British steamer or any other kind of ship. Arrangements were made to get 37 Americans on the American cargo boat Eglantine after its crew voted to give up their own berths.

At the American embassy a staff was kept on 24 hour duty seeking accommodations and handling the crowds of Americans desperate for building.

Ambassador Kennedy telephoned the lord provost to thank Glasgow citizens for their kindness to American survivors of the Athenia sinking.

SAME FORCES BRING ON WAR AS DEPRESSIONS, SAYS FORD

By GEORGE W. CLARKE

Copyright, 1939, by the Boston Evening American

"There didn't have to be any more depression than there has to be a war now.

"The same forces which bring about wars, because of selfishness and greed, bring about depressions—and for the same reasons.

"They are very long-thoughted, the money manipulators, thinking generations in advance. The depression was brought about purposely. There are plenty of things to do in the world, with plenty of work for everybody.

"Work the land, that's the answer—not only for food but for industry. There isn't anything that industry needs which can't be grown on a farm. Why, we use a door on one of our cars which is made out of plastic. It weighs ten pounds and you can't dent it with an axe. It replaced a metal door, which weighed 28 pounds, and you couldn't touch it without denting it.

"The same forces that makes wars and make depressions make labor troubles!

And again it is Henry Ford speaking.

It is back in the Edison room at Wayside Inn now, and he is seated in his horse-haired coverned rocker, his feet on a footstool.

MONEY NOT EVERYTHING

It is all very clear to him. There are powerful men in the world who believe money is the supreme thing, who believe that it is all powerful, all important, and who would not hesitate at anything to accumulate more money, any yet more money. He recognizes it as economic theory—the bankers' theory, perhaps.

And it is directly opposed to his own, which is tat money is only a symbol for exchange, an easy medium by which people can acquire the things they want . . . He believes that one day it will be simple and clear throughout the the world, with one understandable, negotiable medium for exchange which cannot be manipulated, cannot be used as a thing with which to breed war and disaster.

And the present administration, the "New Deal," is in Mr. Ford's opinion, the greed est and most selfish of all

"Never," he says, "have the money men been so completely in the saddle."

He has no quarrel with President Roosevelt, he says, adding:

"But he doesn't like me to say so. As a matter of fact, I think he is doing a pretty good job—you know, keeping things stirred up.

RELIEF ROLLS MISTAKE

"The more things are stirred up, the better everything will finaly ze. People may finally get to understand what its all about.

"Why the greatest mistake that this country ever could make was to start paying people on relief. There's plenty of work to be done, I say again, work the land.

"They tried to put me in jail," he says slowly, "because I told my men not to join a union, that they'd lose money by it.

"I say now that many of the strikes which have been rampant throughout the country were planned strikes — not planned by the men, but by their employers.

"Along comes a slack time and a strike is called. Why? To clean out the workers. Then, after the men have lost millions in wages, they go back to work, sadder but apparently no wiser.

"The time will come when all workers will be in the fields in the summer time, raising crops, and in the factories in the winter."

He has 17 units which do just that now in operation, making parts for Ford cars, and has plans for 32 in all.

SEES N. E. REVIVAL

Some are small, employing less than a hundred people. One employs more than six thousand. And in each is a cross section by ages of the community in which it is located. To illustrate: If there are 30 boys, say of 25 available, and three old men of 80, 10 boys will be employed for each old man. So does each plant represent a slice, by ages, of the workers in any given locality.

"New England," he said, "is getting ready for a tremendous industrial revival. Just wait until they use all of their water power.

"I'm going to build a plant here as an example."

The plant he plans will be near the Wayside Inn, and will employ a hundred or more when it is finished. It will operate in the winter, and, in summer, its employes will be free to work their farms.

Confusion Here Over U. S. Neutrality Laws

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (INS) The existing neutrality legislation of the United States, which President Roosevelt had today made effective by proclamation, gives both warring groups in Europe an inducement to have "neutral" allies.

In the way of interdicted war implements, the allies doubtless need most of all American aircraft Unless the neutrality law is amended by Congress in special session, shipments of airplanes directly to Great Britain, France and other belligerents must cease.

In such circumstances, the question arises, in connection with the summoning of the Canadian parliament on Thursday, whether Canada would be more useful to the allied cause as a belligerent or as a neutral.

The theory has been advanced by some industrialists that as a neutral Canada could buy in the United States "arms, ammunition and implements of war," from which technical belligerents would be shut off

Even if in compliance with the spirit of the existing American neutrality legislation, such purchases by "neutrals" were not directly trans-shipped to belligerents, there is nothing in the situation which would prevent Canada and other countries from releasing their own productive facilities to preparing arms, ammunition and implements of war for the mother country, using American purchases for domestic defense purposes.

By the same token, Italian neutrality may conceivably have a similar significance for the axis powers. The chief difference lies in the fact that Great Britan and France at present control the high seas, and might interfere with shipments intended directly or indirectly for the enemy.

Faster and faster··racing the sun
Yet man's voice is swifter-winged

Yankee Clippers spanning the Atlantic now make New York to Southampton a day's hop. One hundred and fifty to two hundred miles an hour today. Speeds up to five hundred planned for tomorrow.

Yet speed, itself, is eclipsed, time and space made nothing in the breathless moment your voice travels by telephone. Mind meets mind. Heart touches heart. Distance doesn't count. A vast continent, the whole world is your home town by telephone.

Like the airplane, the telephone is continually pioneering. Yesterday, Long Distance called you back when your party was ready. Today you call out-of town points as easily as you make local calls, usually while you hold the line.

Such progress in speed and ease of telephone communication, like the progress of aviation, depends upon close coordination of operation with research and manufacture. Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Western Electric Company, centralizing research and manufacture for the Bell System, keep your telephone service constantly in advance of telephone service anywhere else in the world . . . making it even more convenient and swifter . . . at the lowest possible cost.

RAW COTTON COMMODITY MARKET CINDERELLA

By HUGH E. [illegible]
Financial Editor

Raw cotton, one time Cinderella of commodity market war booms isn't missing out on this party. She didn't even have to wait and come late.

The menial role cotton played from 1914 well into 1915 was well remembered by professional observers but they overlooked a technical point or two in reaching their decision to avoid commitments in the fibre.

At the same time the ultimate behavior of the staple during the late and post years of the first World War was more or less distained.

To begin with there is a wide divergence in prices; government loans now furnish a supporting level, obviating agitation for minimum levels; no doubts exist regarding the position of English exports.

Cotton which waited for months in the teens before starting a long advance carrying the price from around $39 to nearly $219 a bale now promises to emphasize long term realities instead of quaking before short term possibilities.

SHORT SUPPLIES ABROAD

Principal force behind demand for the staple is the knowledge Europe entered the current conflict with supplies. And these must be rebuilt without too much delay.

All the evidence required is the action at Liverpool. Prices bounded up so rapidly in early trading this week that the government finally stepped in and took over control of this last remaining "free and open" market.

And the cables were clear enough about the matter with the Associated Press stating, "general buying reflected immediate need."

The answer is probably found in the pre-war knowledge of American and world surpluses that prevented accumulation of normal advance requirements.

FOREIGN DEMAND LIKELY

Another unemphasized 1914 development was the latent demand represented by need of substitutes.

Before fighting nations reach the "to-the-death" stage they are grappling with cloth shortages. That means dwindling wool stocks. And the result is orders to substitute cotton and various waste products which are cheaper and in large supply.

Such a condition is not fancy but fact. It is indeed the condition under which the last war ended and the basic reason cotton reached its peak price in 1920. For once the condition develops it can not be ended at will.

ENGLISH MILLS WITHDRAW

The price behavior at Liverpool is the more impressive because of forced withdrawal of English cotton cloth from world markets. If supplies are scanty for mills, presumably dedicated from now on to home consumptive needs, then former competitive nations must be in a similar position if for no reason other than the enlarged scope of their markets.

In this manner it is possible to detect a potential expansion in the demand of American mills and their non-combatant world competitors.

With plenty of raw cotton on hand it would hardly be sensible to paint a picture of prices rampaging their way to anything like the 1920 high.

Nonetheless a rise of good proportions should be forthcoming.

That it is in the making is definitely indicated by a jump of $2 a bale in less than a week's time; plus the rapid overcoming of early tendencies toward weakness, in line with 1914 experience.

Operators of New England mills had some doubts as to benefits which will accrue to them in this war-made boom.

DOUBTS DISSOLVING

These are dissolving before the uprush of prices in the Worth St.

Not only are higher quotations assimilated by buyers but offerings are being withdrawn. Operating in high gear the cotton textile industry of this country can undoubtedly supply a staggering amount of goods.

It is also clear that competitor nations are in a position to step up their output sharply.

But here again account must be taken of the supply withdrawn from the world markets by England. The void is tremendous and a much higher operating rate than any seen in other countries is required to fill it in.

Accordingly it is well within reason to definitely expect a good share of the spoils of war which fall to neutral nations will be scattered amongst the textile communities of New England.

Cotton Cloth Sales Spurt

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—Heavy buying of cotton goods again swept Worth st. textile markets.

Dealers said orders were rolling in almost as fast as yesterday when sales of all types of gray goods totaled around 150,000,000 yards, one of the biggest single day's business in history.

Traders said commitments made thus far this week would keep most mills operating at capacity levels throughout the fourth quarter.

There was a slowing in orders in some textile divisions, but sales of print cloths today were at a rate which it was thought would not lag far under the preceding session's 50,000,000 yards.

Stimulating business were advances in cotton futures, continued unsettling European war news, and general belief in trading circles that if the war continued, it would not be long before foreign orders would be rolling into cloth markets here, engaging part of America's cloth producing capacity.

Textile brokers said that while some speculative buying was coming into the cotton goods market, a good part of volume was "protective covering."

It was pointed out wholesalers had only moderate supplies of goods on hand when the European war broke out, and that there had been no buying of gray goods of consequence in the eight weeks preceding the outbreak.

Most traders thought heavy purchases of cotton goods might continue as long as mills were willing to take on orders.

Brisk Market Rally Follows Early Dip

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP) Buyers got behind the stock market today after heavy profit taking on Tuesday's spectacular war boom bulge had knocked downleaders 1 to 4 points.

Rails led the return trip and extreme losses were reduced, cancelled or replaced by gains of 2 or so and there were about as many plus as minus marks in evidence.

The ticker tape ran as much as 4 minutes behind during the greater part of the proceedings, although there were occasional lulls. Blocks of 1000 to 10,000 shares changed hands in the opening period.

Some of the day's cashing in was attributed to the Presidential neutrality proclamation which, if it holds, may cut business for certain companies.

At that, many traders maintained a bullish position on the belief a special session of Congress would be called soon to amend the law so that all kinds of materials may be sold to belligerents on a "cash-and-carry" basis.

Mail orders, listless in the preceding session, came forward with the rails, a few chemicals, oils and utilities, steels, motors and aircrafts lacked climbing power.

In the matter of the neutrality decree, some financial observers pointed out that Canada was specifically excluded from the nations which the United States considers at war. Thus the northern dominion may receive exports of war goods, but not, according to the law, for trans-shipment.

Chemical company stocks were given further study in the light of indications this industry has a new world export business of around $385,000,000 open to it which was formerly supplied by Germany, Britain and France.

Merchandising issues regained friends on the theory they may have been "oversold" in the face of the recent upswing. Realization the rails would benefit broadly from the rush of foreign purchasers of American goods helped the carriers.

Noted was the survey of "Iron Age" which said the European explosion has had a marked effect on the outlook for the steel industry.

SPINNERS WITHDRAW YARN

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—Worsted woolen yarn spinners continued today to withdraw quotations as raw wool skyrocketed the limit in the futures market. Even though raw wool future values fell back after the early uprush, with the October contract maintaining a rise of only around a half cent over yesterday, compared with the full limit in opening dealings, the tendency of spinners to withhold quotations remained.

LIVESTOCK PRICES LEAP

CHICAGO, Sept. 6 (AP)—Livestock prices leaped upward again today on buying demand spurred by the European war. Despite the sharp advances—best in recent history—farmers apparently were holding their livestock for even better prices. Receipts were unusually light.

British Gold Concentrated

LONDON, Sept. 6 (INS)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon told the House of Commons today that he planned to concentrate all the British government's foreign resources in one reserve in the treasury.

He declared that with this in view the Bank of England had agreed that all gold now held in the bank's issue department should be transferred to the British exchange account. Gold amounting to about 250,000,000 pounds sterling ($1,136,000,000) will be transferred today.

This procedure will entail an increase of the fiduciary note issue to 550,000,000 pounds sterling.

Market Bulletins

U. S. BONDS WEAKEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP) — United States government issues sagged in today's bond market in heavy dealings, with losses as wide in some cases at 20-32nds of a point. Transfers of $22,460,000, face value, of Federal loans in the first hour in the New York Stock Exchange was the biggest for any hour in exchange history.

COPPER PRICE LIFTED

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP) — Producers of newly-mined copper today began selling the metal to regulate customers at 12 cents a pound, the best price since October, 1937, and compares with 10 cents last May.

WOOL MARKET EXCITED

Excited buying in the Boston wool market today has resulted in further advances in prices of domestic wools and many houses have withdrawn offerings entirely while others have adhered to a policy of selling limited quantities at rising prices.

HOG PRICES JUMP

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 6 (AP)—Hogs jumped $1.50 to $1.75 a hundredweight today as a war boom on the Omaha market continued. Top butchers brought $9.25 a hundredweight, highest since August 8, 1938.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S recent appeal to five European powers to refrain from bombing civilian populations as an act of war was a humanitarian action which the Hearst newspapers wholeheartedly support.

In his message to the five governments, the President said:

"The ruthless bombing from the air of civilians in unfortified centers of population during the course of the hostilities which have raged in various quarters of the earth during the past few years, which has resulted in the maiming and in the death of thousands of defenseless men, women and children, has sickened the hearts of every civilized man and woman and has profoundly shocked the conscience of humanity."

Mr. Roosevelt's words were in striking agreement with the suggestion that was made by William Randolph Hearst on February 13, 1938.

At that time, Mr. Hearst wrote:

"The horrors of the Chinese-Japanese conflict and of the Spanish civil war show that if the world is to remain civilized, a new code of warfare must be devised for the protection and preservation of civilization . . .

"The butchery of air bombardment is inflicted upon noncombatants, including women and babies.

"It is a frightful indictment of our alleged civilization that nations should desire to practice these horrors, even though permitted to by any existing code of warfare."

IT IS TOO EARLY at this time even to guess as to how many innocent lives may possibly be saved in Europe as the result of President Roosevelt's plea.

The President asked:

". . . Every government which may be engaged in hostilities publicly to affirm its determination that its armed forces shall in no event, and under no circumstances, undertake the bombardment from the air of civilian populations or of unfortified cities, upon the understanding that these same rules of warfare will be scrupulously observed by all of their opponents."

The powers addressed promptly, and even "unconditionally," made the requested public declarations in the form of replies to the President.

Poland was about the first to comply.

In his note of agreement, Chancellor Hitler asserted that "German air fighting forces have received a command to limit themselves to military objects in their combative actions," and concluded:

"A self-evident precondition for letting this command stand is that opposing air forces stick to the same rule."

AT THE SAME TIME, reports were coming overseas from Warsaw that many Polish cities were being subjected to repeated air bombardments, while Berlin communiques told of air raids made "on Polish airdromes."

Perhaps the most that need be said at the moment is this:

In his editorial letter, Mr. Hearst suggested last year that an international congress be called among all the nations to humanize the rules of warfare in advance of another great war.

"Laws must be made," Mr. Hearst said, "which confine hostilities to combatants . . . and which leave non-combatants—men, women and children—free from the murderous attacks of airplanes and military ordnance."

How much better it would have been if, BEFORE WAR BEGAN in Central Europe, such a conference had been held and such an international statute adopted!

"BACK HOME TO BUY" days attract thousands of buyers to Boston stores and induce thousands of other persons from adjacent and distant cities to visit Boston.

Never before has merchandise been so complete or so attractively priced. Everything one needs for himself, his family or home can be obtained at a cost well within his ability to pay.

In a world disturbed by war, upset by regimentation and vexed by power politics, great numbers of men and women and their children can pursue their peaceful way, buying the things they need, want and really ought to have.

There could be no better expression of the confidence Bostonians and New Englanders have in their country.

BOSTON APPLAUDS the $1.40 reduction in the municipal tax rate, third largest decrease since 1933.

The "Hub" thus keeps step with many other cities and towns of the Commonwealth, for the trend is definitely towards easing the burden of government costs.

Of course, Boston's slash is not so impressive as those reported by some municipalities.

But it is a step IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION!

And yet, though she's so sweet and starry-eyed . . . with the results we're far from satisfied . . . Perhaps, like many another beauty queen . . . she is intended only to be seen . . . Something there is that's lacking from the whole . . . Beauty is there, but where, alas! the soul?

Human Side of News -:- By EDWIN C. HILL

IN THIS traditional business of bread and circuses to keep everybody happy, it is to be noted that, provided things are just so-so, we are inclined to kick more about the circuses than the bread.

Robert Moses, New York Park Commissioner, trying to make over and doll-up Coney Island, could learn something from the experiences of Messrs. Augustus, Domitian and Trajan, onetime Emperors of Rome, as they tried to lift the faces of Circus Maximus and Circus Flaminius.

Mr. Moses is quite a bit of a Caesar on his own hook—incidentally, a mighty popular one—but even his august predecessors, with all their power, had to back down on much of their change and renovation. The "pompa," or ceremonial opening parade, had to be kept unchanged, and proposals to slick up and modernize the arenas met with sullen public disapproval.

MR. MOSES comes up smack against this old resistance where people's traditional ideas of having a good time are involved. Indignant letters to the commission and the newspapers warn him that he had better leave the people's playground alone.

Perhaps it was Mr. Moses' announced intention to provide "refined and dignified amusement facilities of the Jones Beach type" that stirred up the comeback. When we're off for the ball game, or the beach, we haven't any great yen for refinement.

Maybe a place where we don't have to worry about refinement and dignity is a good thing in these days of new tensions and new contormities; particularly a place of traditional abandon, like Coney Island, where refined ladies may ride the thing-um-bobs and yell their heads off.

But any way you figure it, this grim and relentless Bob Moses seems to have the nub of the argument. The cleanliness, peace, beauty and all-around perfection of Jones Beach is as far beyond argument or challenge as would be the heavenly city of jasper and gold.

HOLIDAY SCENE AT CONEY ISLAND PARK
"Barkers Still Bark Gayly Along Surf Avenue"

OUR COUNTY and state fairs enforce no Emily Post rubric of behaviour, but they're doing all right. So is Coney Island for that matter. The depression which cast a spell over Mr. Grover Whalen's gorgeous show, passed old Coney by, and the barkers still bark gayly along Surf Avenue. Maybe we could strike a balance. But in a long run, Bob Moses will win.

He'll make us not only refined and dignified, but he'll probably make us like it.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 6—It seems futile to write about anything except the international situation, for that is the only thing which is uppermost in every mind at the present time, but life has to go on and so we must still live in little things, even though they will take on a different value in our minds.

It is curious when great tragedies occur, how suddenly the minor inconvenience and sorrows of life, even personal things which seemed important, become overshadowed by the general weight of world conditions.

I HOPE that, in spite of the contagion of war, we can keep out of it, but I hope that we will decide on what we believe and do what we can to keep ourselves from being bitter even against those we think are in the wrong.

I hope that we will throw our weight as best we can toward a speedy termination of the war, for when there is war no one is safe and the economic consequences of war are serious even to those not involved in the actual fighting.

We should do all we can to bring war to an end with as little loss as possible, and to keep ourselves in the frame of mind where we can be fair, just and merciful.

Our prayer should not be like the Pharisees': "I thank God for what I am," but a petition that we may be worthy of the mercy which is being shown us. Let us do all we can for those who suffer.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
"I Hope We Can Keep Out"

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, my mother-in-law, Johnny and Anne, Mr. and Mrs. O'Day, Miss Dickerman and Miss Cook went with me to attend the Franklin D. Roosevelt Home Club meeting on Mr. Moses Smith's lawn.

This party is given annually to the President and he always enjoys it, for it gives him an opportunity to see and talk with his neighbors. This year he could not be here, so I had to give them his message of regret.

We had the usual local discussions as to whether Hyde Park should have a new postoffice and how the three new schools should be named. Of course, the final decision lies with the board of education, but everyone is taking a crack at it in the meantime.

I RECEIVED a letter from Mrs. Kelvin Vanderlip a short time ago outlining the work which the women's division for the Greater New York Committee for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., is about to undertake. They have been gathering authentic information on which to base recommendations for New York City's fight on poliomyelitis. There are six points which they feel should be incorporated in the program of the permanent New York unit.

One of these points strikes me as particularly important. They suggest that definite help be given to victims, who are able to earn all or part of their living, to see that they are placed in industry without discrimination because of their condition.

This point I think most important, for I am frequently appealed to by young people and older people who have suffered from this disease, but who can still earn a living if people would only realize their capacities.

WELLES' GOOD LUCK EXCITES ENVY

By Leonard Lyons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6—Orson Welles has become the movie industry's foremost subject of envy, because of the contract which permits him to produce, direct, write and portray two roles in his first movie venture . . . At 20th Century-Fox a group of writers were discussing Orson's work and the fact that he is writing two roles for himself. They discussed George Arliss, who also had the distinction of portraying two roles—in "The House of Rothschild.' But even two roles didn't suffice for Arliss. He met the scenarists to discuss the story and made the subtle suggestion: "You know gentlemen, as a matter of historic fact, an important meeting once took place between Rothschild—and Disraeli."

* * *

LARRY ADLER, who is working at the Cocoanut Grove here, arrived from England, where he had been a guest at the home of the Duke of Kent . . . One of the ladies present approached Adler and said: "Can you play my favorite tune— *'Lull in My Life'?" . . . Adler obliged, and later told Kent: "You introduced me to that lady, but I didn't get her name. She said her favorite song is 'Lull in My Life.' Who is she?" . . . "She," the Duke informed, "is the former Queen Victoria of Spain."

QUEEN VICTORIA

ROBERT ANDREWS, who has written a number of novels, books about art and the book from which "If I Had a Million" was adapted, also has written many sophisticated songs, in collaboration with his wife, Vi Bradley . . . Not one of these carefully rhymed and expert songs was acceptable by any of the music publishing companies. Contemptuously, therefore, Andrews composed in twenty minutes a song called "If Oo Wuv Me Tay Tow, If Oo Don't Wuv Me Don't Tay Tow" . . . The next day it was purchased by Paramount's Famous Music Corporation.

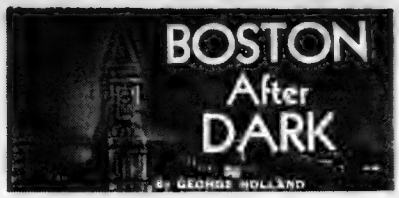
AL JOLSON is so distressed at the decision rendered against Henry Armstrong that he's announced that he'll never go back to New York to see any prize fights . . . Although the servants at Pickfair are very fond of Buddy Rogers, they still speak dreamily of the days when Douglas Fairbanks held court there and would startle the guests by walking fully dressed into the swimming pool . . . Alex Aarons, the producer, hadn't seen his sister, Ruth, ever since she was 14 and found it difficult to reconcile himself with the fact that she had become the world's table tennis champion. He returned to New York and was goaded into playing one game with his kid sister. She treated him with the respect due a big brother—and permitted him to score a single point.



"ADDRESS KNOWN" can be stamped now on a file of the hectic recent European wanderings of Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Burke Sullivan and former Senator Joseph J. Mulhern . . . Both have been prominent politically for years and have thousands of friends and acquaintances . . . In the 1 a. m. broadcast of a Boston radio station a voice spread an alarm that the two were unreported for a week and were believed to be in Holland . . . They are quartered in a Paris hotel . . . Attorney Herbert Alpert received a cablegram from Mulhern after trying vainly to track him down for several days.

ELIZABETH ARDEN and the "Mr. Hawkins" to whom she was betrothed unofficially by Walter Winchell in his Monday column were sitting in the box Narragansett Park holds (until released) for Governor Vanderbilt Labor Day afternoon . . . As guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon H. Fairbanks of Milton, the New Yorkers were present to watch Miss Arden's horse Jacomar run in the Colony Stakes . . . "Mr. Hawkins" of W. W.'s prediction is W. W. (Bill) Hawkins, one of the topmen in the Scripps newspaper chain . . . Miss Arden is Mrs. E. Graham Lewis in private life . . . She was a very worried and unhappy lady Monday afternoon, and Jacomar's defeat was not the reason . . . Her sister is married to a French nobleman and she insists on remaining with her husband "for the duration".

SPEAKING OF the Fairbankses, race track speculation is aroused as to what they'll do about the name of their good mare, U-Boat . . . U-Boat has been the No. 1 horse of the Fairbanks barn . . . Changing a thoroughbred's name entails much more pother and fuss than the fee of $100 prescribed by the Jockey Club . . . It is an awkward procedure, because an explanation is required in programming a horse with a changed name every time the animal starts . . . For instance, if the mare's name was changed to Anthenia (one of the suggestions made its owner), the program and racing charts would have to carry the information: "Formerly raced as U-Boat" . . . Race-bettors are notoriously hunchy and mercurial in their affections . . . The horse Adolf lost more than one follower because of reasons which may be obvious . . . What Fairbanks is concerned about is that a fanatic might try to harm the unoffending horse . . . Incredible, perhaps, but wasn't public furure so great that sauerkraut became "liberty cabbage" in last war?

WASN'T IT A CRIME then as well as now to recruit Americans to fight for the Spanish "loyalist" cause? . . . This column once charged that in Boston alone recruiting by Boston Reds was carried on openly in the Federal Writers Project, and that eleven of those paid servants of this government had been enrolled and shipped to Spain . . . It was never denied . . . Neither was it ever investigated by the proper officials—or any officials . . . As an original and vehement "red baiter," target of abuse by the pinkos and recipient of threats by mail and telephone (all anonymous), your reporter would rejoice that the Soviet-Reich pact served to swell the ranks of "red-baiters" . . . Except that—(prediction) it won't be long now until the real Soviet-Reich pact will be revealed for what it is—a military one . . . which will probably make it another "hundred years' war" . . . There hasn't been one of those for several centuries.

WAR COSTS STUDIOS $400,000 A WEEK

By Louella O. Parsons

Errol Flynn

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6 - The curtailment of the foreign market is having a serious effect on all the studios and while quality pictures will be in order you will see no more million-dollar epics launched until the war is ended. Big companies such as Warners, 20th Century-Fox and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lose $400,000 a week in European revenue, so naturally these spectacles and lavish productions are being postponed.

Warners have stopped work on the $200,000 stage being built for "The Sea Hawk" and yesterday Hal Wallis decided instead to star the popular Errol Flynn in Somerset Maugham's "The Outpost" with Geraldine Fitzgerald as his leading lady. "The Sea Hawk" will eventually be made but not under present conditions. Should England accept George Bernard Shaw's wise suggestion that the theaters be kept open, it's doubtful even then that money could be taken out of the country.

DAILY STORY — Taming a Husband

WE HAD REACHED that stage of married life where my perfectly good and satisfactory spouse had begun to take me as a matter of course.

I knew, of course, that most wives, however happily married, go through the same experience, and that many of them have evolved a technique to meet the situation—stormy reproach, cold indifference, or extra-marital dalliance, as the case may seem to indicate.

None of these appealed to me, though the last one supplied the germ of an idea which began to sprout when I inadvertently turned the garden hose on Mr. Van Cleve, the testy old bachelor who roomed next door.

I CULTIVATED Mr. Van Cleve assiduously. He had two hobbies—early morning rising and stamp collecting.

He took to bringing over his newest stamps and telling me incidents of his early morning rambles.

When he joined us on the porch on summer evenings he was a combination of Lord Chesterfield and Sir Walter Raleigh.

"How can you stand that boresome old dodo?" Bill asked me after one of his calls.

"I don't think him a bore," I replied innocently. "I find him very well-read and entertaining. And he has such lovely manners! Did you ever watch him place a chair or open a door for me? He makes me feel as if I were at least a princess royal."

"Bosh!" exclaimed Bill. "If you women aren't the nuts—to fall for that stuff!"

BUT I KEPT building up Mr. Van Cleve in a perfectly proper and conventional way until I could tell by the appraising looks Bill gave me and the renewal of his old attentions that in his thoughts Mr. Van Cleve was assuming the role of a potential rival.

I was sweetly appreciative of Bill's warmed-over devotion while I missed no opportunity of referring sympathetically to our neighbor's lonely and unloved state.

The scheme worked out beautifully. No longer can I complain of Bill's taking me as a matter of course. Mr. Van Cleve has moved away, out of our orbit, but if ever again I find my stock depreciating in the domestic market I shall immediately look about for material to build another imaginary triangle.

LISTEN, WORLD! — By Elsie Robinson

SO YOU SWEAR you'll never do a decent thing again! See what happened when you took in those worthless Joneses, gave them new clothes and furniture and staked them to a new start! And the time you signed a note for your cousin—and he left you holding the bag!

Yes, you're certainly fed up with Goodness! Humiliation, ridicule, deliberate misunderstanding and downright double-crossing . . . that's what you've received every time you've tried to do a fine and brave thing! Well, what did you expect?

IF YOU'VE sense enough to appreciate Courage, Kindness, Honesty and Fair Play, you're also hep to the fact that they are mighty rare virtues in this world of ours. By and large, we're still mostly savages . . . frightened, stupid, malicious savages who fear and hate anything which challenges our cowardice and comfort.

Some day we'll be greater. Even now, we have the seeds of greatness in us. But few of us are civilized enough to defy the darkness in ourselves, much less the Incorporated Cussedness of Society at large.

But you defied it, yes? And you felt pretty fine when you did it, didn't you? For a few minutes you had a golden glimpse of what life might be if we all were kind and courageous. Then the glimpse faded . . . for the darkness shut down . . . and the vengeance began. All the other savages whose meanness you had exposed and whose ignorance you had challenged were rushing in to get hunk with you!

They were saying that you weren't really good . . . you were just showing off! You weren't really brave . . . you were simply ruthless! You weren't even kind . . . you were trying to wrangle a profit for yourself!

WELL, suppose they did—what of it? You knew, beforehand, what you might expect. Suppose you went bamming through a jungle, upsetting all the habits and haunts of the jungle inhabitants? Would you expect the leopards to write you a vote of thanks because you've jeopardized their safety . . . Not by a long shot . . . YOU'D WATCH YOUR STEP!

Then cut out the blubbering and apply the same logic to your present condition. You may not be adventuring in South America or Africa — but you, as surely, crash into a jungle . . . and jeopardize jungle safety . . . when you challenge human meanness and stupidity.

AND, BY THE SAME TOKEN, IT'S UP TO YOU TO WATCH YOUR STEP . . . OR TAKE THE CONSEQUENCES!

WARREN WILLIAM PORTRAYS GAY D'ARTAGNAN

Loew's Thriller Opens Thursday

D'Artagnan rides again in "The Man in the Iron Mask," the Edward Small presentation of the famous Alexander Dumas story which comes to Loew's State and Orpheum screens tomorrow.

Warren William plays this popular hero, undoubtedly the screen's most popular hero.

Since D'Artagnan first embarked on his screen career early in the history of the industry the fans have liked the dependable lad for the way he has fought and slashed his way over his adversaries and into their hearts.

First seen in one and two reelers, he made his debut in the type of picture now known as a feature when the old Boxoffice company started turning out five reelers in 1915.

In 1921, D'Artagnan attained his present day entertainment mark when Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. portrayed him in the first lavish version of "The Three Musketeers." Fairbanks returned to the role in 1929 when he made the talking screen version of "The Man in the Iron Mask," a silent picture.

D'Artagnan was played for sound in 1935 when Walter Abel had the role in the first sound version of "The Three Musketeers." Recently, Don Ameche filled the adventurer's boots and carried his sword in a picture of the same title featuring the Ritz Brothers.

In the Edward Small production of The Man in the Iron Mask, Warren William will appear as D'Artagnan in his early swashbuckling years when he was captain of the guard of King Louis XIII, and then as the same man older by 25 years but still young in spirit.

Louis Hayward plays the dual role the cruel and sadistic Louis XLV and his twin brother Philippe who is locked in the dread iron mask and condemned to life imprisonment in the Bastille. Joan Bennett, co-starred with Hayward, appears as the beautiful Maria Theresa of Spain.

"Coast Guard," the companion picture, is Columbia's dramatic picturization of that branch of the United States service featuring Randolph Scott, Frances Dee, Ralph Bellamy and Walter Connolly.

ELSIE ROBINSON writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses every-day affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Robinson in 'Blackmail' On Twin Bills Tomorrow

Edward G. Robinson in "Blackmail," one of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's outstanding Golden Jubilee hits, will have its New England premiere at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters, starting tomorrow.

Sharing premiere honors will be Warner Brothers' "Everybody's Hobby," an amusing story dealing with the misadventures in the lives of a hobby-loving American family. Irene Rich, Henry O'Neill and Jackie Moran are featured players.

In a role said to eclipse his "Little Caesar" and "Five Star Final," characterizations, Robinson, in "Blackmail," plays the part of a wronged man who dedicates his life to revenge. Ruth Hussey, of "Maisie" and "The Woman," enacts his wife. Gene Lockhart is cast in one of his rare villainous parts, and little Bobs Watson of "On Borrowed Time" fame plays Robinson's son.

Supporting players include Guinn Williams, John Wray, Arthur Hohl and Esther Dale.

In one thrilling sequence, Robinson grabs his betrayer by the collar, forces from him an hysterical confession and then proceeds towards the fulfillment of his grim purpose of burning him alive in the fire.

Gala Array of Films Booked for Metropolitan's Screen

Bette Davis Leads Parade

Three of Hollywood's outstanding producing companies — Warner Brothers, Paramount and Twentieth Century-Fox — have provided the Metropolitan Theater with what promises to be their most glittering screen season.

Following its current film hit, Paramount's "Beau Geste," the Met will show "The Old Maid," Warners' adaptation of the Pulitzer Prize play starring Academy Award Winner Bette Davis and featuring Miriam Hopkins and George Brent.

Successively, you'll be seeing on the Met screen "The Rains Came," adapted from Louis Bromfield's novel and featuring Tyrone Power, Myrna Loy and George Brent; "Dust Be My Destiny," co-starring John Garfield and Priscilla Lane; James Hilton's "Jamaica Inn," starring Charles Laughton; also "Hollywood Cavalcade," a technicolor production with Alice Faye and Don Ameche; "On Your Toes," the Rogers-Hart musical hit starring Zorina with Gloria Dickson, Frank McHugh and Alan Hale, and Ronald Colman in "The Light That Failed," with Walter Huston and Ida Lupino.

Also included on the selective list for the Met's fall program are Frank Lloyd's "Rulers of the Sea," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Margaret Lockwood and Will Fyffe; Bette Davis and Errol Flynn co-starring in "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex;" Paul Muni in "We Are Not Alone" and the new Cagney film, "The Fighting 69th," with Pat O'Brien and George Brent.

STAY OVER AT MET—Robert Preston, Gary Cooper and Ray Milland are the carefree Geste brothers in "Beau Geste," held over for a second week at the Metropolitan.

So. Station Films Cover War News

With the European war the world's most vital news of the day, South Station Theater management is making every effort to secure the first and most complete coverage for its patrons through the medium of four newsreels.

Jane Withers Stars at Beacon

The Beacon's twin bill includes "Boy Friend," starring the impish, young Jane Withers, and "Panama Patrol," starring Leon Ames. Warren Hymer shares honors with Jane in "Boy Friend."

'Beau Geste' Held at Met

Paramount's "Beau Geste," remake of the Ronald Colman starring picture of 13 years ago, is smashing all records at the Metropolitan Theater where it is holding over a second week.

It is the hit surprise of the year. Although it got considerable ballyhooing, it was expected it would do no more than average business.

True, the "Geste" brothers are portrayed by those popular screen stalwarts, Gary Cooper, Ray Milland and Robert Preston, but not one of them is a glamour boy in the fans' conception of the term. Nor is there a glamour girl in the picture, for surely pretty unknown Susan Hayward, who is cutting her eyeteeth in this one, is hardly in the comph class.

There is, however, a villain in the piece and what a villain! He is Brian Donlevy's savage Sergeant Markoff. This is really Donlevy's picture.

The second feature, "Quick Millions," with Jed Prouty, Spring Byington, George Ernest, Ken Howell, June Carlson and Eddie Collins, is the latest adventure in the lives of the jaunting Jones family. This time they are off to the Grand Canyon to claim a gold mine they have inherited.

New Bar At Dinty's

Welcome news to Dinty Moore's patrons is the announcement of the formal opening Thursday of its new informal bar on the mezzanine floor. This bar is horse-shoe shaped for greater seating capacity. There are tables for those who prefer them.

Muted entertainment and lighting and modern decor make it an attractive haunt for customers who would do their wining removed from the restaurant proper, one of the Maren brothers' most successful ventures.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6 Here's a surprising piece of news. The group theatre of New York, according to Roman Bohnen, one of their leading actors and a member of the group's governing council, is going into the movie business.

Bohnen now in Hollywood working in "Of Mice and Men," says the group already has financing and is looking for film material either in original scripts or one of their own successful play productions.

This right-about-face calls for some comment, I think, since this organization, the alma mater of John Garfield, Franchot Tone and other top actors, only gave permission with the greatest reluctance for their actors to accept roles in the movies.

Phyllis Brooks goes into Walter Wanger's "Send Another Coffin" with Pat O'Brien as her first assignment since her return from Europe. Poor Phyllis is terribly worried about Cary Grant who is on call for military service in England. It doesn't cheer her up much, either, to be assured that Englishmen in America will probably not be called immediately until they have exhausted the enlistments over there.

Cary, as you know, has taken out his first American citizenship papers but they are not final—and if there is too much delay there is little doubt but that he will eventually be called.

BRITAIN TO BLOCK FOE SUPPLIES

LONDON, Sept. 6 (INS)—Great Britain today turned the full strength of its economic guns on Germany with the announcement that, through the newly-created ministry of economic warfare, every effort will be made to choke off the enemy's supplies.

A bulletin by the ministry of information announced:

"The ministry of economic warfare will carry out the same task as the ministry of blockade in the last war . . .

"Activities of the ministry will be of the widest scope, but at the same time every effort will be made to take into account the legitimate trading interests of neutrals . . .

"The aim of the ministry will be to disorganize the economy of the enemy and prevent him from effectively carrying on the war."

Ronald Hibbert Cross, parliamentary secretary to the Board of Trade since 1938, and one of Britain's outstanding commercial and financial authorities, is head of the ministry of economic warfare.

Gunmen Give Victim Dime for Carfare

Two well-dressed and "considerate" gunmen were sought by Watertown police today after a $33 holdup of Richard Hagopian, 21, owner of the Varsity Spa, Mt. Auburn st., Watertown.

Demanding the contents of the cash register at closing time, one of the pair tossed back a dime with the words:

"Here, this is for carfare. We wouldn't want to make you walk home."

Tax in Four Towns Shows Sharp Rise

In spite of the new state revenue measures, passed to lighten the burden of real estate, four Massachusetts towns today found themselves with an increased tax rate.

In Ayer, the rate jumped $3 to $34.90, while Swampscott's rate went to $26, an increase of $1. Billerica's rate increased $2.80 to $10, while in Shirley a $1 increase brought a rate of $33.

Bruening at Harvard, To Give War Views

Dr. Heinrich Bruening, former Chancellor of Germany, today took up his quarters in Lowell House at Harvard and tonight is expected to issue a statement on the European war.

The noted exile is permanent Lucius N. Littauer professor of government in the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration.

Huntington Ave. Pass Now City Property

The Huntington ave. overpass today became city property as the State Department of Public Works surrendered a deed and certificate of title.

Although minor legal technicalities must yet be ironed out, the city of Boston has accepted control of its portion of the overpass and is responsible for its upkeep. A small part of the pass lies in Brookline.

Malden Tax Rate Jumps to $41.60

An increase of $2.80 per thousand in the Malden tax rate was announced by officials today. The new rate is $41.60 as against $33 for last year. The increase is attributed to higher state taxes, and to a reduction in valuations.

Mary Pickford Hops To Join Ill Husband

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 6 (AP)—Mary Pickford, America's screen sweetheart of the silent film days, cancelled plans for a tour of historical shrines here this afternoon to fly to Virginia Beach where her husband, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, orchestra leader, is ill. Rogers, whose orchestra is playing an engagement at a Virginia Beach hotel, was reported threatened with pneumonia.

Twins Invited To Loew's

Identical twins appearing tomorrow between 9 and 10 a m at Loew's Orpheum box office, or between 11 a. m. and 12 noon at the State Theater will be admitted free to the opening performance of "The Man in the Iron Mask."

The picture's theme is the famous historical drama of the birth of identical twins to the throne of France, one being condemned to wear a frightening iron mask to obviate the danger of conflict for the right to the throne.

Louis Hayward plays the dual roles. Joan Bennett is cast as the infanta who loves the "man in the iron mask," although she has been pledged to his twin, heir to the throne.

PICTURESQUE Christ Church in Cambridge is the setting for the marriage this afternoon of Anne Mathews, daughter of Mrs. George Mathews of Cambridge, to Edward Seymour Underwood, also of the University City . . . Rev. Gray M. Blandy is officiating at the four o'clock ceremony which is followed by a reception at the Cambridge Boat Club . . .

Old family lace adorns the bride's gown of white tulle and her veil is draped from a coronet of orange blossoms . . . Her bouquet combines white roses, orchids and babies'-breath . . .

The bride's two nieces, Charlotte Mathews and Mary Wing, aged nine and four, are preceding her down the aisle as flower girls . . . their quaint little gowns fashioned of white taffeta sprinkled with forget-me-nots, and wreaths of blue flowers in their hair . . .

Gay Mathews, whose engagement to Lennox Barnes, Jr., was announced recently, is her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids are Mrs. Harry Stevens and Laura Mary Woodruff of New York, Mrs. William Elmer of Winchester and Eleanor Yellott of Baltimore . . .

The old fashioned motif is carried out in the gowns and bonnets of the attendants . . . The maid of honor's is dusty pink taffeta, with a tight basque waist, and full skirt with a deep hem ruffle . . . Her bonnet of pink velvet has a shoulder length veil and a crown of hyacinth blue flowers . . . The bridesmaids' outfits are hyacinth blue, with pink flowers on their bonnets and they are carrying pink gladiolas . . .

Mrs. Mathews is receiving in a gown of dark blue chiffon with a black velvet hat, and Mrs. Charles M. Underwood, the bridegroom's mother, has chosen a costume of navy blue lace . . . Melville Nichols, Jr., is the best man and ushers include Samuel Atkinson, William Putnam, Lennox Barnes, Jr., and William Thompson . . .

The bride made her debut at the Dedham Country and Polo Club in the 1931-32 season following her graduation from the Lee and May Schools . . . Mr. Underwood, a member of the class of 1932 at Harvard, received his master's degree there last June . . . He is taking his bride to Lake Forest, Illinois, to live . . .

NEWS OF THE RECENT MARRIAGE of Ernest Schelling, famous pianist and composer, recalls an interesting story . . . A few years ago, when Mrs. John Blyth was married at a fashionable North Shore wedding, she marched down the aisle to the strains of "Lohengrin" played by Mr. Schelling on the organ at his Swiss villa, thousands of miles away and relayed across the Atlantic by short wave radio . . .

Mr. Schelling is a close friend of Anne Blyth's father, Carl P. Dennett, and from the time she was a little girl he always said he wanted to play the bridal music for her wedding . . . The 60-year-old musician was married last week at Berne, Switzerland, to Miss Peggy Marshall of New York, niece of Mrs. Vincent Astor . . .

Notes From a Society Editor's Cuff

MRS. HARRY HAYWARD of Beacon st., and Hyannisport, has received word that her daughter, Harriet Hayward Sanders, is sailing from Liverpool today and will come directly to the Cape for the remainder of September . . . Mrs. Sanders has been in Europe since early last spring and, like so many American tourists, her return trip has been advanced because of the war . . .

Mr. Channing Wells of Wianno and Southbridge, has cancelled his original plans for a trip abroad this autumn and is spending September on the Cape with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Heywood Fox . . . The other afternoon he accompanied Mrs. Fox to a tea and fashion show put on at the Wianno Club by Mrs. Guild Newell, socially prominent Newbury st., shopkeeper . . . Joining the Wells party to watch the models parade across the spacious lawns in the latest fall modes were Mrs. Francis Bird with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Massey Phillips, Mrs. Foster Sherburne, Mrs. Charles Russell, Mrs. Todd Baldwin, and Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell . . .

Incidentally the entire Wells family attended the holiday costume dance at the Wianno Club dressed as characters in "The Wizard of Oz" . . . and their appealing, imaginative costumes captured the fancy of the judges who awarded them top prizes . . . In the party were Cady Wells, who is on from Arizona to visit his father, Mr. and Mrs. Turner Wells and Mr. and Mrs. C. McGregory Wells, Jr. . . .

WENDY LEE of Brookline, who was a week-end guest of Joan Griess at Manchester, photographed with William H. Woolverton, Jr., as they spent an enjoyable evening at the Casino in Magnolia. Wendy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lee of Brookline.

Dr. Eddy's Question Box

Tested and Approved by the Good Housekeeping Bureau

WHAT IS STIMULATING EFFECT OF COFFEE?

WHAT FOODS CONTAIN MOST OF VITAMIN B?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY

Questions addressed to Good Housekeeping Bureau will be answered only when accompanied by a stamped envelope. Personal advice cannot be given nor can food or drug samples be analyzed. Address Dr. Walter H. Eddy, 57th St. at 8th Ave., N. Y. C.

Depends On Caffeine Content

Are two or three cups of weak coffee as stimulating as one cup of strong coffee? W. H.

If the stimulation you get from coffee is due to its caffeine content, the answer to your question is a matter of arithmetic. A teaspoonful of dry coffee ordinarily will contain a fixed quantity of caffeine. When you extract the caffeine by brewing the coffee the same fixed amount of it passes into the extract. By varying the volume of water in your brew you determine the amount of caffeine per cup.

If Exposure Is Long Enough

Will you tell me if one gets a tan when taking a sun bath through window glass which omits ultra-violet rays?

Miss J. W. E.

Some window glasses transmit as high as 60 per cent of the ultra violet rays of the sun. If your exposure is sufficiently long, therefore, you will acquire the tan; and the time required will be controlled by two factors: first, the amount of ultra violet in the sunlight that strikes the glass; second, the transmission of these rays by the glass itself.

Whole Cereals Natural Sources of Vitamin B

Which foods and fruits contain the largest amounts of vitamin B?

Mrs. A. E. S.

The United States Department of Agriculture's Misc. Publication No. 275, purchasable from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., for 15c, contains a list of common foods and their vitamin content in units. Anyone interested in comparative values would do well to have this bulletin in his library.

In this bulletin one finds the following figures, which answer your query in part.

Class of Food	Specific Example	Int. Units Vitamin B per oz.
Dairy Products	Milk	3
Meats	Lean Beef	7
Fruits	Oranges	8
Vegetables	Spinach	8
Cereals	Whole Wheat	21
	Wheat Germ	168
	Oatmeal	19

They're Wrong

Some doctors say that orange juice and milk at the same feeding are harmful to a baby. D. P.

Milk lacks adequate vitamin C to protect a baby from scurvy. Orange juice is rich in this factor. Giving both foods at the same feeding is now routine practice by the best pediatricians, and its benefit is fully established. The doctors you cite are misinformed.

VITAMIN B is the anti-neuritic vitamin, because its omission from the diet results in a multiple nerve inflammation or "polyneuritis" associated with beri-beri disease. This vitamin is obtained by eating vegetables, fruits and whole cereals, such as graham flour, corn meal and bran.

Don't Use Preservatives

Most of my friends have taken to using 1 tablespoonful of boracic acid to each quart of vegetables they put up. Is this a harmless procedure? It seems an easy and sure way of keeping them.

Mrs. G. C. B.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING will not issue its Seal of Approval to any canned foods that contain preservatives. Such use is unnecessary if the product is properly heat-sterilized and even in home canning of vegetables the use of the pressure cooker will accomplish safe sterilization. Put your money into proper equipment rather than into drugs.

You Can Be Beautiful

Get Back a Skin of Pearl

By ARLINE GOULD

NOW'S the time to come to the rescue of your summer-darkened skin . . . and turn it to something richly gleaming, pale as pearls, that's fit for the company of the new fashions . . . and fit also for the new feeling of romance that is the gift of their storied background to you . . .

Because whatever else we can say about the new clothes, foremost is their claim to romance. They're not story-book, nor costume-ball . . . they're much too vividly modern for that . . . only a line, a hint of fullness, a body-glorifying draping, all of these are just suggested by the past.

And can you envision a soft betwixt-and-between face above any of this? Or below a little rose of a velvet hat?

You don't have to even consider the idea . . . if you go to work right away on your face, and your neck, with a lovely line-soothing emollient cream to which have been added mild, natural whitening extracts.

Tender as can be to the most sensitive skin (because in it there are the real juices of strawberry and spinach, among others) and much more rapid than the normal fading-out process.

For a short time, the regular $2.75 size of this night cream whitener is available for $1!

It eliminates that in-between week or two, and at the same time it gives a summer-dried skin a chance to recover some of its fineness of texture and surface smoothness. Because, in the first place, that was and is the original job of the emollient night cream! The whitening extracts and juices are added to take care of this particular problem at certain times of the year . . . when summer tan is fleeing, or when your cruise tan is no longer the proud bronze it was, but an indeterminate brown.

If you'd like to learn about this remarkable $1 special on a $2.75 jar of night cream whitener, a time-evicting emollient with natural bleaching juices added, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week days until 5:30, or write, inclosing a stamped, sel addressed envelope.

ALL the trend to softness in new coiffures is expressed in this sweet schoolgirl style, with big velvet bow in back . . . created for Betty Field . . . it is a leading indication of how things are going . . . and it emphasizes the need for a skin as clear and light as the gardenias she wears. Arline Gould tells of a fine way to return your skin to its normal young coloring, and quickly.

Love and Marriage

Boy Suffers 'Faint Heart'

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Last June I graduated from high school. While there I became acquainted with a very nice girl, but soon after that school was over and I never got to know her very well. I won't get to the school activities, since I'm out now, and I'm afraid I'll lose sight of her.

I always understand it's the girl's place to speak to a boy, so if I should see her I wouldn't dare speak unless she did. She really isn't the kind who would snub a person, so I can't understand why she speaks sometimes and again she doesn't notice me, for I had reason to believe she was interested in me before I met her. PETER.

For goodness sake, Peter, don't stand shivering on the brink of what might be a very agreeable friendship. You've been to school together and what could be a better introduction than that?

Next time you see her, take matters into your own hand. Stop and have a friendly chat, invite her to a movie, or to have an ice-cream soda, or something like that. And don't lose sight of "Faint heart never won fair lady."

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

While on my vacation this summer I met a boy of 21 and fell in love with him. I'm 19. We went around together for the two months I was there, and when I left we parted as lovers, saying we would correspond. In fact, he asked me to write to him, which I did.

The first four letters he answered promptly, and then all of a sudden he stopped writing. Now, I don't know whether to write again or not. I thought I might send him a picture postcard from my home town, as a sort of gentle hint that I want to hear. Do you think that would be all right? I do want to keep in touch with him. SUSAN.

It will be quite all right to send him a postcard from your home town, if you care to. But if he doesn't acknowledge this gesture, better let the matter drop. It isn't wise to allow too much neglect on the part of a boy friend. The girl who is independent is more sought after than the "doormat" type.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Wednesday, Sept. 6.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are an excellent judge both of monetary values and of human nature. Your outstanding fault is probably Virgo's tendency to praise too little, to criticize too much. You of today's birthdate have talent particularly for art, lecturing, nursing, farming, a religious life. Avoid over-excitement and rushing. A system, even for your everyday duties, will keep you from getting a case of "nerves."

Send 15 cents and large self-addressed stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston American, Box 2225, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide and lucky calendar for the second six months of 1939, giving the day and month you were born.

Use Seasonal Vegetables

By MARTHA LEE

Doesn't meal planning at this time of year make you feel a little like a world economist struggling with crop surpluses?

Here are a few recipes too cheap to overlook but apt to get tiresome if served in the same old way day after day.

The first recipe might be called a stuffed pepper turned inside out.

PEPPER STEAK

1 lb. round steak, ground very fine
2 tbsp. onion, finely chopped
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1¼ cups milk
2 eggs, beaten slightly
4 cups corn flakes, crushed
2 cups green pepper, chopped

Combine all ingredients except green peppers, mix thoroughly and form into balls. Saute slowly in butter. Remove meat balls from pan. Add green pepper to the butter in which the meat has been cooked, cover and saute until tender. Pour it over the meat balls.

PARSNIP CHOWDER

2 tbsp. diced bacon or salt pork
1 small onion, chopped
2 cups parsnips, diced
1 cup potatoes, diced
2 cups boiling water
Salt and pepper to taste
1 qt. milk, scalded
½ cup butter
½ cup fine corn flake crumbs
1 tbsp. minced parsley

Fry the bacon or salt pork, add cooked onion and saute until tender but not brown. Add parsnip, potatoes, boiling water and seasonings and cook until vegetables are tender. Add remaining ingredients and continue cooking until chowder in very hot. Serve at once.

COUNTRY STUFFED TOMATOES

8 large firm tomatoes
Salt
1 lb. pork sausage
1 cup corn flakes
½ cup butter, melted

Remove stem end of tomatoes. Scoop out and sprinkle insides with salt. Form sausage into balls and fill tomatoes. Toss corn flakes in melted butter and spread over top of each tomato. Bake in shallow pan in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 minutes.

BAKED EGGPLANT

2 cups eggplant pulp
2 eggs
½ cup milk
Pepper and salt
1 cup corn flakes
1 tbsp. butter

Parboil the eggplant about 20 minutes. Let it become cool. Remove the skin. Press the pulp through a colander. Beat the eggs and milk together. Add the pulp and seasonings. Put the mixture in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle the corn flakes over the top, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) until lightly browned.

PEACH CHILI

6 peaches, peeled and chopped
6 pears, peeled and chopped
6 onions, peeled and chopped
3 large green peppers, seeded and chopped
30 ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped
3 cups white sugar
1 qt. vinegar
1½ tbsp. ground allspice
3 tsp. salt
Garlic to suit taste

Combine the ingredients and boil together until thick as desired. Seal at once in sterilized jars. Makes 8 quarts.

Fashion Flash

THERE just is no end to snoods . . . or since they became outright sacks, some call them "whoods" . . . and now they're apt to take up every bit of back hair you own. The favorite is a little pillbox worn well forward, with a swoop of velvet, mesh or even felt snood.

And the little postillions, with a roll of brim over the eyes, turn out to be The Suit Hats, particularly those which roll the left side higher than the right.—ANNICE BRINK.

The PRIVATE LIFE of Dr. Hilary

by HENRY and SYLVIA LIEFERANT
AUTHORS OF "DOCTORS' WIVES"

"NORA, do you remember the furnished room—our 'Honeymoon Castle'? How we used to sit on the lumpy bed this way, terrified at parting?" asked Martin.

"And wishing an earthquake or an eruption would petrify us in each other's arms?" She could hear his heart pound against hers, within hers.

"Remember the bughouse on 96th st.—those ghastly water bugs?"

She released a low, throaty laugh. "I used to threaten that you'd spank them when you came home." She traced the lines in his face with her forefinger.

He captured her hand, drew the finger-tips across his lips. "How many floors have your hands scrubbed, Nora?"

"From here to the stars and beyond—to the moon." She was trembling now, in a sudden resurgence of joy. He remembered—he remembered!

"Strike me pink if I ever do this to you again," he said. "I'm going to get you some hot milk, dearest. Undress and get under the covers."

She was relaxed and drowsy before he returned. Her bare arms and lovely throat gleamed in the lamplight. Martin looked down at her, and slipped his arm beneath her shoulder to help her sit up, and a wave of happiness engulfed them. The awful moment when she had thrust a check at him to pay for Phoebe Dixon's operation, was forgotten.

Nora awoke with a start and saw that it was almost 6 o'clock. Martin had an early morning operation, and should be up, and in the happiness of the evening before she had forgotten to leave word for Helga, the cook, that Dr. Hilary would want his toast and coffee not later than 6:30.

It would be fun, Nora decided, to get his light breakfast herself, yet she didn't move. In the warm cocoon of bedclothes, every inch of her body, every activity of her mind savored the memory of this past night, another darting star in the constellation of their heaven. But the minutes wheeled quickly, and Martin was over-sleeping, a rather unusual state of affairs.

The awful moment when she had thrust a check to him to pay for Phoebe Dixon's operation was forgotten.

Sitting up, Nora cupped her hands to imitate the muffled chirping of the hospital announcer. "Calling Dr. Hilary! Calling Dr. Hilary!" She threw a pillow at Martin's head, aimed a slipper at his foot and hit his ankles. She was rewarded by a slight movement under his covers, a sleepy voice saying, "Dr. Hilary talking, Dr. Hilary—" Then he sat up, scattering her missiles.

"What is this?" he grumbled. "Where—oh, Nora, it's you. I had a dream—no, it wasn't a dream." He swung his legs over the side of the bed, grinned. "Last night wasn't a dream."

Nora was stepping into an India print morning coat. The slide fastener made a humming sound as she zipped it up. "But now it's this morning—my darling. You've got a splenectomy."

"And you've got a mind like a nurse's chart. How do you keep track of my business?"

"You told me yourself. Come on, Doctor, the bugle calls."

A HAPPY FAMILY

Martin's secret vice was an outrageous taste in pajamas. He was wearing a red-and-white striped suit, and when he stretched he became an animated barber pole. "I'll need two cups of coffee this morning, my dear. Helga up?"

She came to him swiftly. "Let's have breakfast in the kitchen—without Helga. I'll make it."

He caught her hands and pressed them against his face. "Would you, darling?" There was a faint scratching at the door. "The wretch, what is he doing up so early? Come in, son."

Tousled, flushed with sleep, gray eyes shining, Peter tiptoed in. He searched their faces eagerly, and with a shout leaped to Nora's bed, from which as a springboard he catapulted himself to Martin's and then calmly dug himself into the blankets. "Gleeps, I forgot!" he cried, and ran out of the room again to bring in his violin, which was resting against the outside door jamb. He placed it gently on Nora's bed. The forbidden pleasure of bouncing on mattresses was one she could not begrudge him this morning.

"See you shave, Dad?"

"All right—come along."

"I want to be a barber when I grow up." A career of music had not yet occurred to him as a man-sized job, and Nora was really grateful that he was growing through the normal I want to be a policeman-fireman-garbage man-chauffeur stage.

HAPPY BREAKFAST

"Good, then I won't have to shave myself."

"Mom—Dad says I can be a barber." But he carried his small fiddle into the bathroom with him.

One kitchen window was opposite the bathroom on a courtyard. Rockets of laughter burst upon Nora when she entered the kitchen. In a very short time, just as coffee and toast were completed, Martin came in, dressed. Peter had one arm in his bathrobe and trailed the rest of it. His face was completely lathered with a stiff foam, except for the eyes.

The big square kitchen resounded with hilarity. The three were bursting, but they had to stop laughing and joking long enough to plan for Phoebe. "After I take Peter to school," Nora said, "suppose I drive up and get Phoebe to the hospital?"

"Good girl. Meanwhile, I can make arrangements.

"Is there anything else I can do, Martin? Or Miss Skean? If it's going to take a lot of your time——"

He regarded her steadily over the rim of his coffee cup. He was ashamed but candid about it. "There really is no great effort involved, Nora. You knew that all the time."

DREARY QUARTERS

She kissed his sorrel hair carefully, so as not to disturb his hair comb. He never hustled or rushed, yet never kept a patient waiting on the table. Beneath the surface aspect of leisure, he was always budgeting his time.

He was certain of signing in promptly at 7. Before the elevator came up, they could hear Peter practicing the Mozart Concerto. "Barber!" Martin laughed.

At ten minutes before nine, Nora turned west through Central Park. Martin did not drive a car in town; he used taxis; but Nora derived full measure of enjoyment from the successive cars she had owned.

She preferred to drive Peter to school rather than have him join a taxi group under the supervision of somebody's governess. At 12 she called for him, at 1:30 drove him to the conservatory and brought him home after 5.

A few sharp nights had left a bright trail of color through the park. The trees, pied in red and gold and green, the very smell of the sunshine, the clean, open drive expanded Nora's heart, carried her thoughts ahead to the meeting with Phoebe.

She turned north on Central Park West, then swung into a side street before the brownstone-front boarding house of Mrs. Parvil.

Mrs. Parvil had a brownstone front, too, tightly confined in a dress of brown alpaca with ecru collars and cuffs. She was short and stout. Her hair was dyed to some unconvincing shade of red, her sharp eyes suspicious. She admitted Nora to the dark hall, where the stale odor of frying bacon clung to the walls.

"You from the hospital?" she asked Nora.

"No, I'm an old friend."

"Miss Dixon's sick. She can't see nobody. She's layin' up there on the bed waitin' for investigation."

"I'm her doctor's wife."

"She ain't told me she had a doctor, only the dispensary——"

"Oh, but she has. If you just tell me where I can find her—you won't have to walk up the stairs."

That appealed to Mrs. Parvil. Openly she examined Nora's appearance, the soft gray tweed coat, the gray hat drooping smartly over one eye. Investigators wore such clothes, but not with such poise, and usually they were blue. The gray shoes though, were inescapable evidence. No respectable investigator wore gray shoes.

"Second floor. Third door down."

"Thank you," said Nora. "And—Mrs Parvil—there won't be any investigator."

The woman's suspicious eyes followed Nora as far as the first landing. Phoebe's door was open and Nora paused in the doorway. The girl had not heard her come up. She lay face down on the bed, her hair the fluted, gold-tissue cap which Nora remembered so well.

In gaining her point about Phoebe, Nora is unwittingly headed into graver trouble. Don't miss tomorrow's absorbing chapter.

'SWIZZLE' TRICKS POPULAR

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—A new kind of magic is sweeping social life, following the publication in the September Town & Country of directions for a dozen or more antics with matches, wineglasses, bottles, coins and paper napkins.

These swizzle tricks, which had their origin in New York's smart cocktail rooms, are amusing and befuddling party and dinner guests from coast to coast.

A typical swizzle trick is the coin-in-the-glass example. "All the apparatus required for this one," says Jerry Kahler, author of the Town & Country article, "is a large, wooden match, and a wide-mouthed bottle or liquor glass.

"Break the match in the middle, being careful not to sever it completely and bend it so the ends meet. Now place it across the opening of the glass and lay down the coin on it, being careful that the edges of the coin don't overlap the arms of the match.

"The object is to make the coin drop into the glass without touching match, coin or glass. All you have to do is let a few drops of water fall on the broken part of the match. The arms will slowly spread apart and the coin will fall into the glass."

Scrubwomen Win Pay Cut Battle

Scrubwomen at the State House today won their fight to end a 61-cent weekly pay cut in connection with the Republican economy campaign.

Public Works Commissioner John W. Beal announced he had provided sufficient funds to restore the old weekly wage, beginning this week.

NEWTON MAN WON $5 FOR TIP ON HOLDUP

Witness to one of the most spectacular holdups in years, a Newton man saw two bandits slug a cashier to the street, beat him over the head with a gun, snatch from his hand an envelope containing more than $1800, and escape in a speeding car.

This was NEWS to the bystander, and he was FIRST to rush to a telephone and call the City Editor at Liberty 4000 with a description of the holdup. The Newton man wins the high award of the week in the Tipster Contest $5 for his fast work.

A Winchester man saw a chimney crash in Woburn, which narrowly missed killing several persons. He, too, was FIRST to call Liberty 4000 with the report, and he wins $2 in the Boston Daily Record-Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Tipster Contest.

A similar award goes to a Medford woman who telephoned the story of a dramatic rescue from drowning at Houghton's Pond, Canton. And $2 is also awarded to an Ipswich man who notified the City Editor at Liberty 4000 that a three-masted schooner was beached at Ipswich.

A Revere man telephoned the story of a drowning at Revere, and submitted the first picture of the victim's body. He wins $2 for his initiative. And $2 goes to a Norwood tipster who was first to report the vandalism of boys who broke into a local cemetery and overturned tombstones.

The $1100 robbery of two veterans at the Bedford Veterans' Hospital was first reported by a Bedford man living in the vicinity of the holdup. He wins $2. And the first notification of a three-alarm fire in a congested apartment house district in South Boston wins $2 for a South Boston man.

For a prompt report of the tragedy of a boy killed by a train in Beverly a Beverly man who witnessed the accident wins $1. A similar amount goes to a Winchester woman who reported a suicide in her neighborhood, and to an Everett man who reported a hanging in the home next door to his.

Awards of $1 each go to a Somerville man who was first with the news of a Cambridge fire, a Dorchester man who reported a serious automobile accident in his neighborhood, and a Lynn man who reported the suicide of a despondent Lynn fireman.

Enter this interesting contest NOW. If you see any occurrence or picture that is newsworthy, call the City Editor at Liberty 4000, and be FIRST with the news.

Pick your own monthly repayment

You can borrow from $20 to $300 without asking others to sign with you. Decide on the amount of cash you need, then choose the payment which suits your budget. You may repay in 2 to 20 months, as your income permits. Below is a table showing sample repayment schedules. Other amounts and other plans are available. Note how you may repay your loan in a very few months to keep the cost to a minimum. Note, also, what small payments can be made if you wish.

Cash Loan You Get	Amount you pay back each month (including all charges) for following periods
	2 mos.	4 mos.	6 mos.	8 mos.	10 mos.	16 mos.	20 mos.
$ 50	$25.94	$13.29	$ 9.08	$ 6.97	$ 5.71	$ 4.37
100	51.88	26.58	18.15	13.95	11.43	8.75	$ 6.41
150	77.82	39.87	27.23	20.92	17.14	13.12	9.62
200	103.77	53.16	36.31	27.89	22.85	17.50	12.83
300	155.65	79.75	54.46	41.84	34.28	26.25	19.24

This table is based on prompt repayment. Payments may be made in advance of the day they are due, if you wish. Advance payment reduces the cost of your loan proportionately since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at household rates of 2½% per month, with higher rates on smaller amounts. Massachusetts 2½

All Sport Officials Are Bums; A Rebuttal

AT THE SAME TIME THAT ASA BUSHNELL mailed out postcard announcements that the annual meeting of the college football officials would be held in New York on September 16, a National publication printed a growl against the men in linen bloomers. Bushnell functions as Commissioner of Eastern college officials. The gentleman who wrote the magazine yowl functions as a literary monger of misinformation on athletic topics, of which he knows surprisingly little.

AUSTEN LAKE

Sezee in part, "Nowadays it is no longer a question of whether the best team win. It's a question of whether the team or the referee will win . . . In football, as the most over-officiated sport, one decision may cost the match . . . Nowadays the result hinges more on the official than on the players." There is much more in a similar vein.

It makes no matter that the author was never an athlete of any prominence. But it does matter that he has never officiated a football, baseball or hockey game, or he would be in position to realize that the burden of broken rules rests not on the graying skulls of the officials, nearly all of whom have been athletes in their day, but on those of the players, who sometime use every knack of knee, elbow and hand to beat the law. And don't think that all college coaches are adult Fauntleroys who never stoop to snide tricks.

So the best that magazine author and his ilk can do is to sit on the rim of some stadium and guess at the tribulations which beset the horn honkers and whistle-beepers. For, dealing as it does with the variables of human nature and rule-by-eye, sport is far from an exact science. Nor does the official have opportunity to retire to some study and pour over tomes of jurisprudence and precedent before rendering his verdict. He does it on the spot! And, should he temper his justice with mercy, he is quite as likely to deprive a team of its just due as he is to injure its rival by drastic application of the rules.

The Why of Officiating

LET'S MAKE AN ANALOGY. Suppose one of the ball toting team's tackles beats the snap of the ball by an eyeflicker and thus gets in a quick block against the defending halfback. The ball carrier plunges three yards through the gap—three yards which he probably wouldn't have gained if the tackle had given the halfback equal opportunity. Now, if such a happening occurs in midfield those three yards aren't very vital—there are still 47 yards to go. But if it happens close to the defender's goaline it means a touchdown. Hence, if an official is conscientious, he should tootle his squawker quicker, if anything, near the goallines, where payoff plays occur, than upfield where there is still lots of yardage left.

The crowd and critics scream! The press prints imprecations! The penalized players roar! And everybody is unhappy! But the official himself knows, ruefully perhaps, that if he had not honked that play back he would have been just as morally remiss as though he had cheated at cards

Coaches Want 'Em Called

WHAT THE MAGAZINE AUTHOR DOESN'T KNOW is that the majority of college coaches want the rules enforced. They realize that laxity can cost them a game as quickly as rigid application. Let me illustrate! During a Columbia-Michigan game recently the linesman called back a Columbia touchdown for a premature block, like that mentioned above. It was the death-knell of Lou Little's hope of snatching the fat from the fire. When the game ended soon afterward, the crowd milled about the linesman heaping vituperation on his dome. But in the locker room Little came in, shook the official's hand and said, "Maybe you feel bad about that penalty. So do I. But let me tell you, if you hadn't called it, you'd never have worked another game for me as long as I coach football."

Unfortunately all coaches are not like that! And yet, oddly, the coaches are seldom letter perfect on the rules themselves and often screech as vociferously on some point of football law as the howling horde in the stands. During one of last autumn's games a coach of one of New England's major varsity complained bitterly at having a lateral pass ruled illegal. Yet the following week he telephoned an apology to the official, saying, "Our movies show clearly that you were right."

"What," asked the official, "would you have thought if there weren't any movies of the play?"

"I'd have had you on my blacklist," said the coach candidly.

AND SO IT GOES! Yet one of the main things wrong with officiating is something that has nothing to do directly with the officials. That is the mob's abhorrence toward all sport judges, which goes back through generations of fathers and granddads who yelled "Kill the umpire" or "You blind robber" and passed on their bad example to their sons. So sport officiating through the years has grown up as an object of disdain rather than being an office of dignity as a kind of prefecture of athletic discipline. So it is sometimes considered smart to beat the referee or umpire on little matters, like a quick shift, or the 17 methods of holding while not appearing to do so. And some of the colleges still regard football officials as a quartet of Saturday afternoon hangmen, come to pester pious people.

Still with all the nauseous incidents in other professions, such as law, medicine, politics, journalism, etc., it is significant that, during 100 years of baseball and 80-odd years of football, no umpire or official has ever been hailed before a drumhead court for malfeasance.

HOLY CROSS CONTENDER FOR EASTERN GRID TITLE

By BILL GRIMES

WORCESTER, Sept. 6—With eight of last year's regulars and a total of 20 lettermen available, it would appear as though Holy Cross will be a contender for th emythical Eastern intercollegiate football title.

BIG BILL COLLINS of Arlington is back in harness at Holy Cross. Bill made the grade in his sophomore and junior year but owing to financial troubles was out of college last season. The "Big Train' is back and looks like the goods for one of the guard positions on the Purple

Yet the 1939 Crusaders, potentially great, stand an even chance of being eliminated from the title race before it is well under way since the schedule is tough from the very start.

It starts off with Manhattan College, Louisiana State and Brown, three powerful teams. Then come Colgate, Providence, Tufts and Carnegie Tech, or successive week-ends before the windup with Boston College.

STAFF YOUNG

Head Coach Joe Shecketski sent his Crusaders through a strenuous workout yesterday afternoon. And from now until college opens he'll have his charges out morning and afternoon. Of the 55 gridsters who were invited to participate in the practice sessions, Alex Nappi, a sophomore back from Medford who has been playing baseball for Jack Barry at Bellevue, Va., this summer was the lone absentee.

Joe Shecketski is starting his initial season as head coach. He succeeded Dr Eddie Anderson, who is now at the University of Iowa. Coach Shecketski has surrounded himself with one of the youngest coaching staffs in any major college, Coach Ed Krause, former Notre Dame tackle, Eddie O'Malley, who is only two years out of the Cross, and the reliable Hap Riegel who will have the freshmen squad.

GREAT SCOUT

Under Dr Anderson Joe Shecketski was a scout and the backfield coach. Although he remained very much in the background during the Anderson regime, Joe Shecketski played an important role in the gridiron picture at Holy Cross.

He is rated, and rightfully so, as one of the keenest scouts in college football. Since his first day on Mt. St. James Joe Shecketski has been highly rated by every member of the six varsity football squads that he coached.

Unlike many gridiron mentors, Joe Shecketski realizes and recognizes football as a sport. He's not the slave driving type of coach.

The welfare of his players is paramount to victories.

"We have a very tough schedule" admitted Coach Shecketski,

B. C. TO AIR SIX GAMES

An important announcement wended its way out of the Boston College A. A. office yesterday afternoon. It stated that six of the Boston College grid games this year, which will be played at Fenway Park and takes in the Florida, Temple, Auburn, Boston University, Kansas State and Holy Cross contests will be broadcast over the air.

A second announcement stated that George Sullivan '40, of Brighton had been appointed a succeed Paul McKinno of Everett, last year's varsity football manager.

These two statements formed the real news of the day at the Heights as the varsity grid men under Frank Leahy, completed the initial week of practice with the usual drill in calisthenics in the morning, and individual coaching by Leahy and aides in the afternoon.

A dummy passing drill with Charlie O'Rourke pitching, completed the activity for the day, and set the squad in the right frame of mind for the scrimmages which will probably start tomorrow.

Harvard Sends Out Applications

The Harvard Athletic Association yesterday mailed 35,000 sets of ticket applications to the entire alumni ticket list for the eight games which will be played by the varsity football team this fall.

The association continues to waive the personal occupancy clause in the case of the Yale game, although personal occupancy application will have prior rights in the filling of applications which are not for personal use.

The association will admit children under 16 years of age at half price in the reserved seat sections for the Bates and New Hampshire games. Tickets will be obtainable only at the Harvard Athletic Association before 6 p. m. on the Friday before each game.

Applications for single games must be filed not later than 5 p. m. on the following dates: Pennsylvania and Dartmouth, Wednesday, Oct. 11; Princeton, Wednesday, Oct. 18; West Point, Wednesday, Oct. 25; Yale, Wednesday, Nov. 8. C. U. Star End Heeds War Call

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 (INS)—Catholic University lost a football and boxing star and Canada gained an army flier tonight.

Gerald Strang, 220, a junior at the university here, star end on the football team and an outstanding middleweight boxer, answered the call to the colors and returned to his home at Ottawa, Can., to report as a reservist in the Royal Flying Corps. Strang won four of six intercollegiate boxing bouts last season by knockouts, won one decision, lost one.

Twenty-two years ago Strang's coach, Arthur J. ("Dutch") Bergman, now athletic director at C. U., left Notre Dame University, where he was a star halfback on the football team, to enlist in the A. E. F. aviation corps. He served with the American fliers overseas for 14 months.

TROJANS TITLE THREAT

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6 (AP)—Now that virtually every rival coach in the Pacific Coast Conference has "conceded" the pigskin championship to Southern California, there is little left for Headman Howard Jones to do this fall.

All the grey-haired veteran has to accomplish is:

2—Rebuild the entire right side of his line, bereft of men who were the seasoned starters of his 1938 machine.

4—Win the Pacific Coast Conference championship.

MATERIAL UNBALANCED

U. S. C. has a world of material, but it is unbalanced.

He has good end material, but Jones would feel better if he knew for certain that Al Krueger, pass catching hero, would be ready for action after a knee operation this spring.

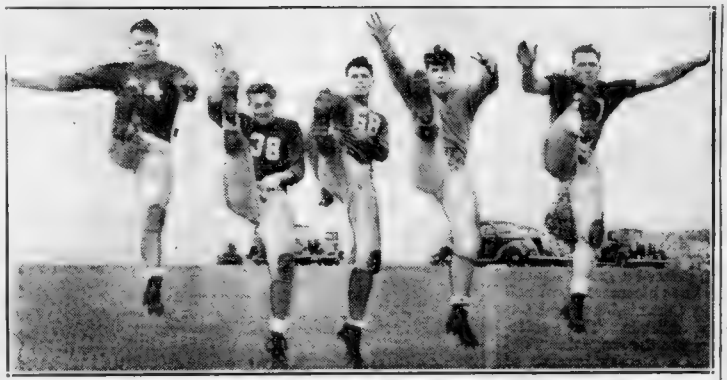
For the quarterback role—most any coach would be willing to boast any two of the candidates. Ambrose Schindler, 1937 star, is back. Grenville Lansdell, daring caller, passtosser and broken field runner, is another.

NAVE STAR PASSER

And Doyle Nave, the lad who fired the four passes that brought Duke to its knees, won't sit on the bench again all year for another dramatic appearance such as occurred last January in the Rose Bowl.

Maybe the rival coaches are right about U. S. C., but there's one coach willing to wait awhile to find out. His name is Howard Harding Jones.



SILAS TITUS JACK KELLY ANDY GIRARDI JACK WHALEN RONNY CAHILL

ARTILLERY—Coach Joe Sheeketski, Holy Cross, had a flock of punters on hand for first practice. The five above are the ace booters of the strong squad. They are Silas Titus, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Jack Kelly, Lowell; Andy Girardi, Hartford, Ct.; Jack Whalen, Pittsburgh, and Captain Ronny Cahill, Leominster.

TURNER QUITS RACING

CLEVELAND, Sept. 6 (AP)—The name of Col. Roscoe Turner was stamped indelibly into the list of aviation yesterday for the third time.

Afterward, he announced his retirement from competitive racing because of age. He has been racing 12 years.

Tony Levier, of Montebello, Cal., was second and Earl Ortman, an airline pilot of Montreal and Newark, N. J., took third.

Harry Crosby of Burbank, Cal., was fourth; S. J. Wittman of Oshkosh, Wis., fifth, and Lieut. Joe Mackey of San Antonio, Tex., sixth. The other entrant, Art Chester of Los Angeles, pulled out after 17 of the 20 laps because of motor trouble.

Wittman finished ahead of Crosby, but was forced to fly an extra lap because officials ruled he cut the scattering pylon at the start of the race.

ARLINGTON SQUAD OUT

Fred Ostergren greeted some 45 candidates for his 1939 Arlington high gridiron machine at the high school field this afternoon before an interested crowd of onlookers.

The eleven this fall will be built from inexperienced material, since some ten veterans graduated.

While this was the first official practice session, Ostergren told how he'd been working out with a group of 15 huskies for the last two weeks.

"These 15 like football so much they just couldn't wait until the regular opening," said Ostergren. "They begged me to come up to the field and give them a few pointers. And I couldn't very well refuse. They're great boys with a fine spirit."

Art Blanchard, the 18-year-old, who made schoolboy headlines last fall when he gave up an assistant manager's job to become Arlington's top backfield man, was receiving a lot of attention from Coach Ostergren.

Weighing 150, some 10 pounds heavier than a year ago, Blanchard is to quarterback Arlington this season.

Holy Cross Powerful But Faces Stiff Grind

when queried on his prospects. "If there is a 'breather,' it must be Providence College. But, I understand that Coach Devoe has a very formidable squad, which, he expects will be troublesome for all opponents. And, of course, he'd like nothing better than to knock off the Crusaders.

"We will not be able to scout Manhattan, our opening opponent but while we're playing Herb Kopf's boys, I'll have Ed Krause down in Mississippi checking up on L. S. U. And, while we are entertaining Louisiana State, Ed O'Melia will be sitting in on the Georgia-Furman game, and Ed Krause will be taking a peek at Brown.

"Dr. Anderson met with fine success here and I realize that I'm in a "tight." But, I'm banking on these kids coming through for me. They know as well as I do that I'm in a tough spot. I have a fine group of boys. We know each other pretty well. And, they realize that I don't go around kidding or bulling them. Also, that I fully appreciate that if they are injured or ill, there is only one place for them, the infirmary.

"Like all coaches, I'm out to win as many games as possible. But I want to stress the fact that I'll never risk injuring any player to win a football game.

"I realize that it's going to be impossible to fill the gaps which the graduations of Bill Osmanski, Joe Delaney and Hank Ouilette created in the ranks of the Crusaders, but I'm better off than most coaches, for I have eight regulars and 20 lettermen available. And some pretty good material on hand from last year's freshman squad.

"I cannot honestly do any crying about the size of my players, for they are a pretty hefty crowd, with a great spirit.

"Of course I don't know what the future has in store for me, but I'll guarantee that Holy Cross will be represented by a well coached eleven; which, if it goes down to defeat, will be in there fighting until the final whistle."

Dunn Rebuilding Husky Eleven

"All we need are a couple of tackles, a guard, line-replacements, a kicker, and a passer," said Coach Jimmy Dunn somewhat dolefully this morning as he started his second day of practice with Northeastern's varsity baseball squad of 23 candidates.

The Huskies opened the practice schedule with a comparatively small number of hopefuls, but Dunn expects to have his squad at full strength by Monday. He then will have three weeks to prepare for the opening game with St. Anselm on September 30.

With many of his key men still missing, Dunn may not be able to have a scrimmage until the end of this week. He will devote most of his time to fundamentals.

The first eleven lined up tentatively had Capt. Connie Sullivan and Carl Johnson at ends, Mel Warshaw and Phil Sheridan at tackles, Jerry DeNapoli and Al Olsen at guards, Art Anderson at center, and Ronnie Tubbs, Abe Winegrad, Ernie Colantonia and Charlie Patterson in the backfield.

Another innovation that may bring more candidates out shortly is the luncheon that is being provided each noon. Northeastern has no training table, but for this first week of double sessions, the squad will be fed every noon.

O'Keefe Resigns Revere High Post

Athletic Director and Head Coach Robert ("Bob") O'Keefe of Revere High School today resigned.

Harry Finkelstein, former Tufts athlete, will act as coach of the football team that reported for its first practice yesterday. John C. Bradley, former Holy Cross star, will be his assistant.

O'Keefe was appointed in 1928 after a brilliant career at Holy Cross, and his teams had varied success. He will remain with the school as assistant principal.

74 Candidates Answer Call at Gloucester

Joe Souza, veteran end, was named captain. Aarne A. Frigard and Donald (Simmy) Steele are assistant coaches. Equipment was given to 74 candidates today.

St. Anselm's Grid Team Out Today

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept 6—Football gets under way today at St. Anselm College when Coach Cleo O'Donnell greets the members of his 1939 squad for the first time this season.

About 24 men are expected to report for the initial practice. Until classes start on September 21, there will be two sessions daily.

Assistant Coach Jackson L. Cannell will assist O'Donnell in tuning up the 1939 "Hawk" juggernaut, which is expected to have another banner year because of the prevalence of veteran material.

Only three varsity men were lost to the squad through graduation.

15 Veterans At Bowdoin

BRUNSWICK, Me., Sept. 6—Bowdoin will open its fifth football campaign under Coach Adam Walsh on Sept. 12, when more than 60 men are expected to report for the first practice session. The squad, which will probably number well over the 62 invited back, will include 15 veterans.

Lettermen available this fall include Hack Webster and Sunny Austin, centers; Capt. Walt Loeman, Joe Griffith, Frank Savasteanski and Harold Oshry, guards; Bunny Bass, Carl Boulter, George Toney, tackles; John Marble and Peter Howie, ends; Andy Haldane, Hank Bonzagni, Haven Fifield and Boyd Legate, backs.

Ten of last year's stars will be among the missing, including Ralph Howard and Fred Jealous, guards; Bill Broe and Nels Corey, tackles; Mac Denham and Dan Hanley, ends; Bennie Karsokas, John Cartland, Oak Melendy and Walt Rowson, backs.

Stengel Makes Plans For 1940 Flag Fight

After a short trip to Philadelphia and Brooklyn, which saw them meet with fair success, the Bees return to the Hive this afternoon for a five-day stay during which they will engage the New York Giants in three games and the last-place Phils in a brace of contests.

After this brief Allston sojourn, the Swarm will head West for the fourth and final time to be gone until September 28, when it will return to close the local season.

The best our National Leaguers can hope to do now is climb to sixth place, which is two games above them at this writing.

Manager Casey Stengel naturally would like to make it, but he's far more interested in getting a line on some of his young talent.

So the pilot intends to keep on using youngsters like Sebastian Sisti, Carvel Rowell, Phil Masi, Stan Andrews and "Hiker" Moran frequently, even if it costs him the sixth slot. It's next year he's thinking of now as long as he hasn't a chance of landing in the money.

ROOKIES SHOW WELL

But judging from the showing of his rookies on the recent trek, "Casey" won't be sacrificing any strength by keeping them in the lineup.

Sebi Sisti, the Swarm's 17-year-old infield "find," was nothing short of a sensation against the Phils and Dodgers not only as a shortstop and then as a second-sacker, but also as a hitter.

The Buffalo youth played a bang-up game at short for three days before the team left home but his hitting was nothing to write home about.

He found the range on the road.

Among other things, he tied up the first Labor Day game in Brooklyn with a home run and connected for four blows, including a double, as he paced his mates to victory in the nightcap.

There never was any question about him filling the bill defensively at short, second or third. If he keeps on hitting, he'll be a big league standout before he reaches his majority.

Carvel Rowell, called in from Hartford when Al Simmons was sold to the Reds, will be making his first local appearance in this series with the Giants.

Picked up last winter as a free-agent infielder, Carvel was converted into an outfielder at Hartford and has been playing center-field for the varsity in the past few games. It was as a left-handed slugger, however, that this young Alabaman most impressed us when we last saw him down at Bradenton in the spring.

POSEDEL GOES TODAY

The customers won't keep patronizing the park at this time of year to watch a club try to climb from seventh to sixth place. They will continue to turn out, though, if they're given an opportunity to watch new faces who may turn out to be stars another year.

Stengel is smart in starting to concentrate now on the youths on whom he must pin his 1940 hopes.

It may be different this p. m. when Barnacle Bill Posedel takes the slab against the New Yorkers. The current ace of the Stengel staff will be seeking his 16th victory. He shut out the Phils in a lamplight contest last Friday for No. 15. The Swarm shouldn't feel too badly about losing a game now and then to the Dodgers after getting Posdel from them in exchange for Al Todd.

Girl Racers On Sports Card

Outstanding stars of the women's track firmament will compete, fresh from national triumphs, during the course of Mayor Tobin's second annual field day, monster charity carnival of sports entertainment and exhibition features, which is to be held at National League Field next Monday afternoon.

Heading the list of Boston Swimming Association brilliants, as announced by Ben Levias of the track and field committee, is the speedy Olive Hasenfus who outfooted a great field to lift the National Women's Association 100-meters dash at Waterbury, Connecticut, on Labor Day.

Miss Hasenfuss will attempt to lift both the 50 and 100-yard Beehive titles and will be opposed, among others, by Catherine O'Connell and Gladys Carstairs, rival teammates.

Miss O'Connell, who showed the way at Waterbury with her long range baseball throwing, will likewise put on her special prowess for field day spectators. She is expected to be pitted against a star male ball player.

N. E. Title Race At Lexington

The first annual track meet and 25,000-meter New England championship road race will be sponsored by the recently-organized Parker Club and the Lexington V. F. W. next Saturday on the Lexington Center playground.

The Shore A. C. of Newark, N. J., has entered 12 athletes, headed by Tom Quinn, National 5000-meter champion, while the American Walkers' Club of Elizabeth, N. J., will enter four in the one-mile walk, led by Tom Munster, one of the best in this event.

There will be 13 events in all, including two for women. Entered in the women's events are the Red Diamond Girls' Club of Waltham, Boston Swimming Association and Lunenburg Girls' A. C. Included in the men's program will be the Aaron A. Ready memorial mile, the Lexington Rotary Club 220-yard dash, and the Lexington Minute men 440-yard run.

Manets, Whalers Open Season Tonight

The Quincy Manets open the semipro football season tonight playing the New Bedford Whalers under the floodlights at the new Quincy Municipal Stadium at 8 o'clock. Joe Zapustas, Julius Miskinis, Walter Mitkus, all of Fordham, and Bill Flynn and Bill Holland, former B. C. players, will be in the Quincy lineup, while Clarence Haskell, former North Carolina star, and Logan and Warren Doane play for the Whalers.

2 Weekly Games For Olympets

Walter Brown's plan for two softball games a week will have its first tryout at the Garden next Friday and Saturday evenings. The Pets will face the Langley Girls of Portland, Me., champs, Friday night, and then battle the recently-crowned Connecticut title holders, the Stamford Nutmegs on Saturday evening.

The Nutmeg teams comes here fresh from a victory over the Burnham Brady Girls of Hatford in the State tourney. For the past five years the Hartford team has defeated all Connecteut teams, but the Stamford Girls proved too much for them this year.

The Olympets already hold a win over the Langley Girls of Portland to their credit. They defeated the Maine titlists in Portland some four weeks ago by a 4-1 margin. The defeot was the only one the Langley team has suffered this year.

Ace Trotters, Hitched to Pole, Smash Record

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 6 (AP)—Greyhound and Rosalind, champions of the trotting world, have put a new team record on the books for the second time in less than a week.

Sep Palin, Indianapolis trainer, hitched them to a pole yesterday and drove them a mile in 1 minute 58¼ seconds before an Indiana State Fair crowd.

This was three-quarters of a second better than they did last Thursday at Syracuse, N. Y., to break the 27-year-old mark of Uhlan and Louis Forest.

RED SOX, YANKEES RENEW WAR TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—With but a mathematical chance of winning the American League pennant since they trail the league-leading Yanks by 14½ games, the Boston Red Sox opened a three-game series with the league-leaders today.

There laying 10 to 100 the Gotham band will carry off the pennant for the fourth consecutive year but there is but one point that Manager Cronin of the Red Sox wants to bring home to the six other members in the league.

Cronin is anxious to show that the Yanks are a much overrated club. He wants to prove to the baseball world that with any sort sort of pitching he would be unfurling the bunting from the Fenway portals.

The Bostonians have hammered the locals to the queens taste in games won and lost. Had the Cleveland club shown any zort of fight in playing the Ruppert clan there's hardly any question as to the outcome. Only the Chicago White Sox could be counted on to furnish any sort of opposition and their gecture was rather weak.

The Yanks, it seemed, only had to appear on the field to score a win against the majority of clubs boasting American League affiliations. It's true the Red Sox bore down every time they met the leaders.

It is safe to say that plenty of rivalry exists between the players even though the race is nearing it's end. The Yankees are anxious to sweep this series to wipe out the stigma of eight consecutive wins scored by the Boston delegation.

Today Manager Joe McCarthy is tossing Lefty Gomez against Lefty Ostermueller. It's a battle of southpaws that will be watched with interest wherever baseball fans now care to follow the outcome of the teams.

YANKEES IN, CARDS PERIL REDS

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

The Yankees today began making preparations for the World Series which opens on Oct. 4 at the Stadium, with the party of the second part to be named at some later date.

All anybody knows now is that the Yankees are virtually in. Lined up against them may be the Cardinals, who are coming through the stretch with a rush, but more likely it will be the Reds, who yesterday beat the second place Cards by 3 to 1 to stretch their National League lead to five games.

While the Reds thus are winning the hard way—if indeed they are winning—and counting every game won and lost, the Yanks it back more or less secure in the knowledge that it would be virtually impossible for them to muff the American League pennant now.

All they need is 12 victories in their remaining 25 games to make it four flags in a row. The second place Bost Red Sox couldn't stop them even if the latter won all of their remaining 26 games.

And, of course, every time the Red Sox drop a game the Yankees need that many less wins.

Both the Yanks and Red Sox idled yesterday, and the only American League competition gave the Tigers a 4 to 2 victory over the Browns, and the White Sox a 4 to 2 win over the Indians.

The Reds' win over the Cards was the feature of the National League schedule, with Bucky Walters taking the decision, his 22nd.

In the only other games the Giants trimmed the Phillies, 6 to 0, behind the neat twirling of Cliff Melton and the Dodgers downed the Bees, 6 to 2.

Dodgers' '39 Success Traced To Arm of Bird Dog Trainer

By the Associated Press

Hugh Casey is a bird dog trainer. Hugh Casey is a baseball pitcher. That may not appear to add up, but when you learn that Hugh Casey does his pitching for Brooklyn's anything-can-happen Dodgers—'nuff said.

Now, the Dodgers aren't going anywhere in the National League pennant chase this year. They're having the fight of their lives trying to regain the bottom of the first division right now, while Cincinnati's Reds, by nosing out the St. Louis Cardinals, 3—1, yesterday in ten innings, are flying five games in front of the pack.

WON ELEVEN GAMES

But the Dodgers may wind up in the money yet, and the Brooklyn fans would like nothing better. If they do, husky Hugh will have a large bit to say about it.

Casey won 11 games so far this season, tossing a six-hitter on two days' rest yesterday to whip the Boston Bees, 6—2, for his fifth straight decision. And, since bird-dog trainer Casey fits right into the jigsaw puzzle of the daffiness boys, the Flatbush folks have taken him to their collective heart.

Hugh is a strong young guy, with a pretty fair fast ball, who had A tryout with the Chicago Cubs back in '35. But it just wasn't in the cards that he would wind up anywhere but Brooklyn. He belongs.

Didn't Uncle Robbie Robinson hand pick him at Atlanta 'way back in '32? Of course, it might have been because Hugh made Uncle Robbie a right good companion a-hunting in those South Georgia swamps in those days. But that doesn't matter. When Uncle Robbie picked a guy for the Dodgers—that was enough for the boys and girls from the Williamsburg bridge to Coney Island.

TAMES THE BEST

Mostly Hugh has knocked the ears off the first division lads this year, collecting eight victories at the expense of the upper bracket clubs.

His hurling job yesterday kept the Dodgers just a half game away from fourth place, since the New York Giants also won, blanking the failing Phillies, 6—0, behind Cliff Melton's nine-hit elbowing for their fourth straight win.

STICKS TO BUSINESS—Strictly a worker in training camp in Michigan is Bob Pastor, who fights Joe Louis for the heavyweight title Sept. 3 in Detroit. The bout will be a 20-rounder, and Pastor is working like several Trojans, to be fit for the marathon bout. He's naturally a good performer over long routes, and with his intensive preparation is certain he'll wear the Bomber down, then knock him out.

ALL-STARS BRILLIANT GRID ARRAY

King football comes to town next Monday evening, when George Preston Marshall returns to Fenway Park with his rambling Redskins to do battle with the Eastern College All-Stars.

Once again the Crosscup-Pishon Post will present Boston's most spectacular sporting event of the year.

The bright lights atop the Yawkey-owned Park will shine down on Boston's first real all-star game. Those lights will reveal some of the finest players in the college ranks of last year.

The fleet Bob MacLeod Dartmouth's backbone for the past three years; the bull-like Bill Osmanski; the mysterious Hindu from Syracuse, Sidat-Singh; and many others, will be wearing the colors of the ex-college stars.

Once again the crowds will thrill to the soaring punts and nifty passes of the one and only Slingin' Sammy Baugh, as he struggles to keep his mates in the thick of the fight.

The Redskins depend on the former Texas Christain ace to keep them in the early moments of the game, until their tremendous power and weight can wear down their youthful opponents.

The All-Stars can field a team that is well versed in the Sutherland style of football, which it now appears likely they will employ.

Yankees, DiMaggio Bid for New Marks

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—The Yankees, back home at the Stadium today against the Red Sox, launched their final long home campaign during which they meet all seven opponents.

To the Yankees, and to Joe DiMaggio in particular, this is an important stand.

The Yankees expect to mathematically clinch their fourth straight pennant quickly.

WANT RECORD

The flag which will give the Yankees the distinction of being the first club in the American League to win four consecutive pennants and the second club in baseball to do it.

DiMaggio's ambition is to lead the league with a batting average of at least .400. This would give him the honor of being the first player in the Yank's history to hit that high.

Babe Ruth's mark of .378, made in 1924, is the highest batting average by a Yankee and LouGehrig's mark of .363, in 1934, is the second highest.

A .400 average is not easily achieved. The last time it was done in the American League was in 1923 when Harry Heilmann of the Tigers, topped the circuit with .403.

TERRY LAST .400 MAN

During the space of four years it was accomplished three times, Georg Sisler, Browns' first sacker, hitting .407 in 1920 and .420 in 1922. Then came Heilman's mark.

It was nine years ago that the last .400 mark was made and this was constributed by Bill Terry who lead the National League with .401 in 1930.

DiMagg has an excellent chance, though. His hitting has been as consistent as one has seen in the majors in many years. During the past two months his batting average hasn't fluctuated 10 points, in itself a remarkable effort.

Whether he leads the league or not, DiMagg will go down in the Yankees' history not only as one of the greatest hitters, but one of the best "team" players the club ever has had. There is nothing "individual" about DiMagg. He is merely part of a machine, takes his orders and follows them as obediently as any one else.

PARK SERIES RIVALS MOVE TO CASEY LAIR

The Boston Park League playoffs battle scene moves back to South Boston Stadium tonight for the fourth game in the four out of seven series for the twi pennant when the St. Augustine Club faces the Dick Casey crew of Dorchester.

Amateurs Active At Dilboy Field

Brisk ring action is due at Dilboy Field, Somerville, tonight, when 20 of the best amateur boxers in New England square off in the finals of the Golden Glove tournament. Boxing carded in five classes, the 126, 135, 147, 160 and heavyweight.

In the 126-pound division it looks as though Harold Harris and Howard Dunderdale will do plenty of battling. Zeke DiTomassio of East Boston must be rated as an upset possibility.

The 135-pound class is a tossup. Chick Tuggles, Bernard Howard, Ray McGlaughlin and Carlo Intanirelli will stage the battle royal.

The 147's may find the classy Bill Tordiglione prevailing as Golden Glove king. Tordiglione, however, faces hitters like Eugene Boulden, James Pettie and Ray Tammany.

Ernest Kapatoes, yet to taste defeat at Dilboy Field, will be a very slight favorite in the middleweight class. Larry Pacino of Roxbury, Dan Cremmins, and Lou Vivolo should provide some bristling contention.

Drivers Out to Break Racing Combine

New England's outstanding midget auto drivers will head for Riverside Park speedway, Medford, tomorrow night determined to wreck the new victory monopoly of the Rufe Anderson-Joe Sostilio team.

This new combine started two weeks ago has taken every important midget auto victory in these parts. The team idea was started by Rufe Anderson when he received his new "Cobb Special" said to be one of the greatest midget cars ever built. Rufe, then, turned his well-known No. 83 over Joe Sostilio and they ride as a team.

The result is that there may be more action than anticipated at Medford tomorrow night, Ed Eng, Bob King, Oscar Ridlon, Danny Murphy, Bud Brown and several others are out to wreck that combination tomorrow night, and if it's humanly possible that newly formed monopoly will be smashed by trust busters.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Sept. 6—The possibility that Europe's war clouds might darken America's professional hockey arenas this winter was considered here, but Maurice Podoloff, president of the International-American League, most of whose players are Canadian citizens, were inclined to be optimistic about the situation.
